Thieu To Run First, Ky Takes 2nd Spot

SAIGON (AP) A Military presidential ticket headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky in the No. 2 spot, emerged from political infighting here Friday. Consolidating rival candidates, it looks like a winner. With unified backing of the 600,000-man armed forces, which central communications and the bulk of South Vietnam's transport facilities, Thieu and Ky seem certain to outdistance civilian candidates in the election Sept. 3. That election is intended to restore civilian government.

Political realities here require a politically contented military, and the surest way to keep the military contented would be to elect a general to the all-powerful post of president. The general would then have to leave the armed forces officially.

The new constitution requires that all military officers running for political jobs must ob-

Suit Against Jury Advice Given Here

Attorney General Jack Gremlion has advised that Ouachita Parish Registrar of Voters Mrs. Mae Luckey consider filing suit against the police jury if she is not granted a pay raise approved by the 1966 legislature.

Gremlion said, however, legally there was nothing the attorney general's office could do. "It's up to the police jury," he told the Morning World by telephone Friday.

The annual $1,500 raise passed both houses by overwhelming margins and would be split between the state and parish government on an equal basis.

The police jury has twice refused to implement it.

Mrs. Luckey now receives an annual salary of $7,500. The act of proved pay raise, now an act of Louisiana law, would raise her salary to $9,000. The increase, which was based on population.

Ouachita Parish is believed to be the only parish governing body that has refused to implement the legislative act.

The legislative act was not a directive but a permissive piece of legislation, leaving the implementation up to local governing bodies. The state will not implement its half however, until the parish agrees to pay the other half.

A letter advising the police jury of the act being signed into law and dated August 1, 1966, was mailed to Monroe. It was presented to a police jury meeting some 45 days later.

Mrs. Luckey attended the meeting on request and was questioned at length before the jury voted the pay raise request down.

Attempts were made later to include the pay raise in the new police jury budget but this failed in a November meeting.

Mrs. Luckey received her last raise following the 1960 Federal Census.

Holiday Crowds Take To Roads

By United Press International
Millions of Americans Friday headed into a long weekend of fun and relaxation in celebration of the nation's birthday anniversary.

Most of them expected to take to the highways at some time or other in the four-day fourth of July holiday period. The National Safety Council said up to 900 might be killed in traffic before midnight Tuesday.

State and local police and safety organizations mobilized to hold the death toll down. Most states canceled leaves for state police. A few called National Guardsmen out on special patrols.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness warned that a fireworks danger still exists. It said unsupervised fireworks displays are a menace to the sight and safety of youngsters throughout the United States.

Drownings were expected to contribute heavily to the accidental death toll as pleasure-lovers sought relief from summertime heat at lakes and seashore.

The National Safety Council estimated that 700 to 800 persons would be killed in traffic between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday, compared with 600 in a similar holiday period in mid-summer.

The record toll for a fourth of July was 577, counted in 1966's three-day holiday. The all-time record toll for any summer holiday was 636 over the three-day Labor Day weekend of 1966.

tain leaves of absence for the summer campaign.

The race took on new meaning as Ky, who announced his candidacy for president May 12, bowed out under pressure within the Armed Forces Council on behalf of Thieu, who tossed his cap into the ring June 14. The council applauded.

"Everyone was surprised, including the participants," a high U.S. official said.

A Vietnamese government source said Ky, in withdrawing and agreeing to run for vice president, was making a patriotic sacrifice to avoid splitting the armed forces.

But it was apparent that the premier, riding high with a month's head start on Thieu, had lost so much support among the 50 or so ruling generals that he had to take a back seat.

Thieu, 44, is a lieutenant general in the army. He is a native of central Vietnam and a Roman Catholic, the religion of a small but influential minority. Though his post as chief of state is largely ceremonial, he technically outranks Ky, the administrator.

Ky, 36, has run South Vietnam's government for two years. He is a vice marshal who still commands the air force. He is a native of North Vietnam and a Buddhist, the religion of most Vietnamese.

Miss Northeast, Watermelon Queen Win In Preliminaries

By RONNI LUNO
World Staff Writer

The local crowd which has supported Miss Northeast Louisiana State College, Becky Butler, with tremendous bursts of applause throughout the 1967 Miss Louisiana Pageant were finally rewarded Friday night as Miss Butler walked off with the final preliminary swimsuit trophy.

Miss Louisiana Watermelon Queen, Deborah Gail Swartz, was named the Friday night talent winner in what seemed to be the hardest of all three groups of talent to judge.

Miss Swartz, last year's first runner-up and grand talent winner, had tough competition from the field of group A contestants who provided the best evening's overall talent performance of the pageant. However, Miss Watermelon bounced, tumbled, flipped and smiled her way to the trophy with considerable poise and grace. It was a peppy number done to the tune of "Chim Chim Chere" from Mary Poppins. Her performance was definitely a crowd pleaser, and the audience awarded her with several ovations.

Miss Butler also faced some stiff competition in winning her second swimsuit trophy. She was also a preliminary winner in last year's pageant. The 5'8", hazel-eyed, brunette weighs 128 lbs. and measures 37-25-37.

She appeared throughout the contest in some of the brightest colored evening gowns worn by any of the contestants; however, when it came to her winning performance, she chose a basic white swimsuit showing off her tanned olive complexion and fine form perfectly.

Mrs. James Hoogland, president-elect of the Monroe Jaycee, presented Debbie her talent trophy, while Hugh Hyman, president-elect of the Monroe Jaycees, presented the trophy to Becky.

In tonight's final 1967 Miss Louisiana Pageant performance, the top 10 contestants will be announced. They will appear in all three phases of competition—swimsuit, talent, and talent before being narrowed down to five finalists.

The judges will ask each finalist a question, and after considering all answers, they will tabulate the scores and announce the new 1967 Miss Louisiana.

Awards will also be given to night for Miss Congeniality, in which the contestants themselves decide the winner, and for the Grand Talent.

However, even before the curtain rises on tonight's final 1967 staging, the judges will have completed the difficult job of assessing points in all categories including poise and personality and cutting the field of the 38 top Louisiana beauty queens down to 10.

And although the six winners of the preliminary judgments are sure to be top contenders for this elite group of semi-finalists, each of them is aware that to be named a member of this group she will have to have earned many points in all of the other categories.

During the first two nights of competition Miss Louisiana Soybean Marybeth Bodker, who appeared in evening gown Friday, and Miss Franklin Parish, Donna Barnes, who was in Friday's talent group, were named the winners of the swimsuit division.

Miss Bodker won her trophy Wednesday night. Thursday night she showed grace and coordination as she did a gymnastic ballet to "Lara's Theme."

Partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures are expected through Sunday with a possibility of a few mainly afternoon and early evening thundershowers. The low tonight is expected to be between 70 and 76. High today is expected to be between 90 and 96. Winds are predicted to be southwest at 5 to 15 m.p.h.

The Louisiana Delta agricultural forecast calls for dry conditions good today and Sunday. Dewpoints in the upper 60's to lower 70's are expected. Seventy per cent sunshine has been predicted for today and Sunday with probability of rain had not noticeably changed the American attitude toward smoking. It said, stronger steps were needed to overcome the industry's $200 million a year advertising campaign glorifying smoking to the public. The low was recorded as 76 around 6 a.m.

from Dr. Zhivago in the talent portion of the show.

Miss Barnes appeared in evening gown the opening night of the pageant and won her swimsuit award in Thursday's competition. Friday she displayed her artistic talent in a series of drawings of little girls as she told the audience and judges "Thank Heaven For Little Girls."

The earlier preliminary talent winners who join Miss Swartz in the race for the "Grand Talent" award were Miss Greater New Orleans, Genevieve Del Gallo, and Miss Centenary, Cheryl Marsh. Miss Del Gallo competed in the swimsuit division Friday while Miss Marsh was judged in evening gown.

During the pageant's premier performance Wednesday, Miss Greater New Orleans, thrilled the audience and obviously the judges with her superior soprano voice singing Puccini's beautiful aria, "Un Bel Di Vedremo," from Madame Butterfly. Thursday night she appeared in a strikingly feminine evening gown of flowing white along with an empire bodice and long sleeves.

Miss Marsh, who had displayed a well-proportioned 35-24-36 form in Wednesday's swimsuit division, proved herself an excellent representative of the famed Centenary Choir as she captured Thursday's talent trophy with a professionally performed rendition of

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's office has withdrawn a subpoena issued Friday for a man reported to have once had connections with an anti-Castro group here.

The subpoena was issued for William Dalzell, said to be a petroleum engineer and an oil adviser to the Ethiopian government.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock withdrew the subpoena after members of Garrison's staff were unable to locate Dalzell at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Garrison contends, Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the long killer of President John F. Kennedy was connected with anti-Castro elements based in New Orleans. The district attorney also says dissident anti-Castro factions were involved in a plot to murder the President.

FTC Seeking Smoking Alert

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) called Friday for legislation to require radio and television cigarette commercials to include a warning that smoking can cause cancer.

In a report to Congress, the agency said health hazard had been predicted for today and Sunday with probability of rain had not noticeably changed the American attitude toward smoking. It said, stronger steps were needed to overcome the industry's $200 million a year advertising campaign glorifying smoking to the public. The low was recorded as 76 around 6 a.m.

U.N. Views Rival Withdrawal Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly will vote Monday on rival resolutions seeking withdrawal of Israel troops from Arab territory, but some veteran diplomats are privately expressing doubt that any pending proposal will receive the necessary two-thirds majority.

Such a stalemate would throw the whole question back into the 15-nation Security Council, which already had made an unsuccessful attempt to resolve the problems left by the six-day war between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

As the assembly concluded two weeks of general debate Friday afternoon, 18 Latin-American countries submitted the newest resolution, setting no time limit for an Israeli withdrawal. It called for an end to the state of belligerency by all sides and a resort to peaceful settlement of all disputes.

Its sponsors claim they have enough support to win approval, but many delegations still were studying it. U.S. sources said it was far preferable to a proposal by 17 so-called nonaligned nations, but instructions were still awaited from Washington as to how the United States would vote.

Sponsors of the nonaligned plan also expressed confidence majority, but some usually well-informed diplomats said the proposal just did not have the votes needed. They said the Latin-American resolution probably would get more votes, but its approval was by no means certain.

During the pageant's premier performance Wednesday, Miss Greater New Orleans, thrilled the audience and obviously the judges with her superior soprano voice singing Puccini's beautiful aria, "Un Bel Di Vedremo," from Madame Butterfly. It said, stronger steps were needed to overcome the industry's $200 million a year advertising campaign glorifying smoking to the public. The low was recorded as 76 around 6 a.m.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson spun through a stack of paperwork Friday and came up with a four-year extension of the draft, a slash in dairy imports and a higher, $338-billion ceiling on the national debt.

In addition, the Texas White House announced that President Asger Asgerisson of Iceland will visit Washington on July 18. And West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger won't be there July 7-8 as planned.

Kiesinger is tied up with financial and economic problems involving the Cabinet and Parliament and proposed a short postponement of his trip.

There were other bits of business at the LBJ Ranch, where the Pedernales River meanders through the Texas hills.

One item was the signing of a bill to let government agencies and departments keep on spending at the current rate until Congress gets around to providing their appropriations for the fiscal year that begins Saturday.

All in all, it looked as if Johnson's customary 4th of July stay at the ranch might be a bit skimpy on relaxation.

For one thing, at a time when the President seems to be getting a jump on the 1968 presidential campaign—he stops just short of sailing his sombrero into the ring these days—Democratic governors are counting on him to fly up to St. Louis today and make them a speech.

White House press secretary George Christian left the possibility open. He said Johnson had received an invitation and it was under consideration.

This was going pretty far toward an outright announcement. Ordinarily the President fights shy of anything resembling a commitment until the last moment.

That way he can hold his options open, as the White House puts it, call off any tentative plans and avoid any probable protests about mind-changing.

Any doubts that Johnson expects to try for another four years in the White House must have all but evaporated in June. Usually with official notice of his going withheld until the last minute, the President winged away to New York on June 3; Austin, Tex.; Baltimore, June 27; and Philadelphia, June 29.

All the way, the speeches were for political purposes—raising money for the Democrats—had outright political overtones.

In performances reminiscent of the hard-slugging campaigner of 1964, Johnson apparently has been setting the pattern for the months ahead: He thunders at the cussers and doubters, the critics and protesters. He wants the people to put the emphasis on what is right with America and its policies, not what is wrong. He urges them to count their blessings, to show their patriotism, to condemn the flag burners, to uphold the rights of all nations to self-determination.

On the first full day of his Texas stay, the President was reported up very early. He dug into the pile of papers on his desk. He was on the telephone to Washington and Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler on the debt-limit bill.

Johnson signed the bill, which boosts the permanent limit from $285 billion to $338 billion and allows an extra $7 billion increase to $365 billion for the 1969 fiscal year beginning a year from Saturday.

The debt was $227 billion on Friday. It got that high because the administration and Congress periodically agreed to lift the limit temporarily.

Johnson signed both the draft extension bill and an executive order to make some of its provisions operable.

Colleges and Universities in the United States become noted for various specialized studies and fields of learning. Northeast Louisiana State College is fast becoming the school for potential Miss Louisianas.

In the third round of preliminary judging Friday night two Northeast coeds gave that reputation a boost as they captured first places in the swim suit competition and talent judging.

Deborah Gail Swartz, Miss Louisiana Watermelon Queen and first runner up in the Miss Louisiana Pageant last year, is a sophomore at Northeast.

She lost out to Joy Woods, who was also a student at the Monroe college, although her home is in New Orleans.

Taking first place in swim suit competition was Miss Northeast herself, Rebecca Ruth Butler, 19-year-old sophomore at the college. She is currently majoring in home economics.

"I can't believe it, I'm so excited," said Miss Butler as she grasped her trophy tightly during a picture taking session after the judging.

"I just didn't think it could happen," said Becky to well-wishers backstage.

Miss Butler was first place winner in the swim suit category in last year's competition for the coveted title.

Sharing Friday night's spotlight was Northeast sophomore Deborah Gail Swartz, Miss Louisiana Watermelon Queen, whose perfectly synchronized acrobatic-ballet won first place in the talent competition of the preliminary judging.

"I have had training at a school of dance," said Debbie, "and I have practiced the routine every day since June to perfect it for the contest."

She is taking a gymnastics course at the college which she credits with greatly improving her routine.

The two young women join the lovely ranks of Northeast coeds who have gone on to capture the title of Miss Louisiana.

They include Joy Woods, 1966, Cherie Martin, 1964, Judy Cahey, 1963, who gave up her crown on the night she won the title to announce she was planning to be married and Diana Smith, 1962.

It is certainly not a sure thing and there are many talented and lovely girls in the pageant from other schools and areas of the state but percentage-wise Northeast coeds cannot be taken lightly.

Ethics Body Reaffirms Censure Bid

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The Commission on Governmental Ethics Friday reaffirmed its censure of a businessman for payment of money to a state official while in the process of selling his agency office supplies.

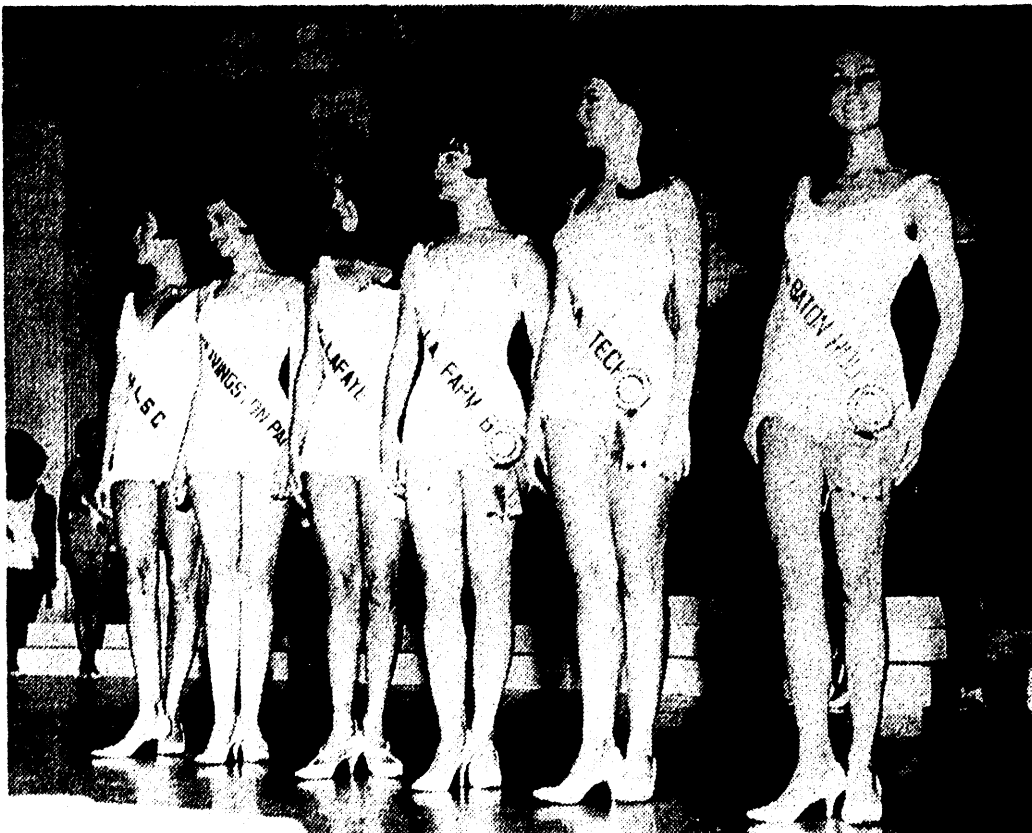

The Louisiana Supreme Court upheld the commission's jurisdiction over persons not in state service in an appeal by John W. Kane Jr., Baton Rouge office supplies dealer.

Ethics Commission Secretary W. W. McDougall said court action had placed in doubt the commission's right to act against Kane, and the commission decided to publicly announce its reaffirmation of the censure.

With the jurisdictional question settled, he said, the Ethics Commission warned that violations of the code of governmental ethics by persons doing business with the state may be dealt with more severely in the future.

Kane was investigated in 1966 in the payment of money to Wallace King, assistant director of the state Parks and Recreation Commission during negotiations for the purchase of materials and supplies from Kane's office supplies firm.

There were many other excellent talent showings Friday night. Miss Shreveport opened that portion of the show clowning through the difficult "I'm The Greatest Star" from Funny Girl.

Little Miss Tangipahoa Parish, Paulette Marie Boudreau, performed an eye-catching jungle dance in which she gave her interpretation of an African warrior during the hunt, the kill and the victory.

Susan Carter, Miss North Louisiana Cotton Queen, displayed a fine voice and lovely appearance as she delivered "A Taste of Honey."

Mollie May, Miss West Carroll Parish, kept the audience laughing during an original skit of "A Teenager and Her Problems," and Miss Beauregard, Donna Perkins, showed musical versatility as she played "Andalouse" on the flute and "Climb Every Mountain" on the piano.

Another versatile performer was Artie Fellom, Miss Hammond, who accompanied herself on a guitar as she sang her composition, "Faith in My Country."

The Northeast Louisiana Stockshow Queen was by far the best actress to appear during the 1967 pageant. Linda Leoty, who appeared in last year's show as Miss Madison Parish, appeared first as Eliza Doolittle asking Henry Higgins to teach

Top Ranger Tabs Charge As Libelious

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Capt. A. Y. Allee of the Texas Rangers said Friday that charges of unlawful arrests and trespassing lodged against the lawmen before a senate subcommittee in Edinburg were "false and libelous."

Allee made the charge in a telegram sent to U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, chairman of the subcommittee on migratory labor conducting a hearing in Edinburg into the lower Rio Grande Valley farm dispute.

Allee, in San Antonio for the funeral of a longtime Ranger's wife, wired Williams that he did not learn of a request for his presence Friday at the hearing until Friday afternoon, and he would be unable to attend due to the funeral.

In a telegram sent to Col. Homer Garrison, chief of the Department of Public Safety, but apparently intended for Allee, Williams reported on charges levelled against the Rangers at the hearing.

"I can assure you and your subcommittee that neither I nor any person under my command have made unlawful arrests, or trespassed on private property, or violated anyone's individual rights as charged in your telegram," Allee wired Williams.

"I personally regret and resent for myself and the fine men serving under me, that these false and libelous charges are being repeated before your subcommittee."

Although unable to attend the hearing, Allee said he would be glad to have sworn testimony concerning the incidents transcribed for the subcommittee's use.

Mary Ann Mobley Is Favorite Here

By RONNI LUNO
World Staff Writer

"In every sense she is still a Miss America," just about sums up the feelings of everyone who has worked with Mary Ann Mobley since she arrived in Monroe Monday afternoon.

Mary Ann, Miss America 1959, in addition to her talent and fame, is considered one of the friendliest, loveliest girls that Mississippi and the South have ever produced.

Everyone, from directors, guest queens and contestants to the press, who has been associated with her in the Miss Louisiana Pageant which she is emceeing, has been won over by her charm, talent and seeming sincere love of people.

She has worked endless hours learning scripts, songs, routines; practicing with Phares Corder's orchestra and guest performers; and guiding each night's show skillfully over any rough spots.

Caroline Masur, who has done a top job of directing both rehearsals and the show, said of Mary Ann, "I am simply crazy about her. She does a magnificent job. She is the best that we've had."

Curtis Rape, pageant performer and choreographer, said,

"Mary Ann is a person of real depth. The thing about her that has impressed me most is her extreme friendliness and that she never seems to tire."

"If I ask her to do something over 10 times," he continued, "she does it 20. She has real talent picking things up instantly, but the best part of Mary Ann is her enthusiasm, energy and big smile."

"She carried our show in Lake Charles," said Phil Shaheen of the Miss Lake Charles Pageant, "she took over our audience, and we want her back."

After listening to superlative comment after comment, it is easy to begin to wonder, "Can this girl be real?" However, no one is more skeptical of a female performer than are other female performers and the press. Yet, the contestants, visiting queens and the press representatives all love Mary Ann.

Press photographer Mike Windham said, "She is so lovely and talented that any photographer would like to take shots of her, but what really makes her memorable is her friendliness and how she remembers everybody's name from the first time she meets them."

Bobbie Perry, Jaycee Jayne hostess for the pageant guest performers, thinks that it is

Mary Ann's ideals that make her stick out in the crowd. She said, "Mary Ann still exemplifies the ideals of the all-American girl next door. She turned down the lead role of 'The Girl From U.N.C.L.E.' because she did not approve of several things in the script."

Following Mary Ann's Thursday noon talk to the Rotary Club in which she spoke of Today's youth and the ideals and principles which youth should try to exemplify, the other principal performers of the pageant sent her a bouquet of daisies with one red rose in the center with a card, "There is always one that sticks out in every crowd."

Mary Ann Mobley obviously stuck out in the 1959 Atlantic City crowd, and she still sticks out today in the 1967 "all-around nice person" crowd.

Rehabilitating Check 'Artists'

There is a tendency, these days, to call everything anyone does that is wrong a "disease" and not a crime or a sin. Now, in an action that may seem strange, bad-check writers have similarly been declared suffering from a compulsive ailment. To try to help them, an organization called Checks Anonymous, similar in purpose to Alcoholics Anonymous, has been organized.

In an interesting article, Sylvia Porter, economics writer, said in part: "Among my most interesting correspondents during the past two years has been a prisoner at the Nebraska Penal and Correctional Complex in Lincoln. 'F. C.' let's call him, is president of Checks Anonymous, a group of convicted bad-check passers. All members are now serving, or have recently served, jail terms in varying lengths and some have spent the majority of their lives behind bars."

Bad-check writing and passing is fundamentally different from alcoholism in one major respect. Within itself, it constitutes a law violation whereas drinking and alcoholism do not. There are two other fundamental differences. 1. Bad-check writing is primarily a desire for illegal monetary gain, while alcoholism is not. 2. While there may be a strong mental obsession for writing bad checks, there is no strong physical craving such as exists in alcoholism. Having admitted these three fundamental differences, it is still worthwhile to consider the possibility that bad-check writing is also a disease and one that can be cured.

Checks Anonymous was organized in 1963, with the help of progressive-minded prison officials and legal advisers.

Significantly, a full one-third of all the prisoners at the Nebraska Penal Institution are bad check passers. Of this large group, 895 criminals have joined Checks Anonymous.

Evidence that efforts at rehabilitation are paying off is found in the fact that a total of $1,854,722 has been returned to victims of the bad-check passers, although the prisoners earn only 50 cents a day. The prison return rate has been cut to eight per cent, compared to 50 to 70 per cent in prisons without Checks Anonymous organizations. A total of 208 years of prison time and cost has been spared by shortened terms for members.

Bad-check losses in the United States are now estimated at more than $1 billion a year. As another measure of this crime's impact, it is estimated that retailers in the country must sell an extra $10 billion a year in merchandise to cover these losses.

In addition to the daily direct losses, Checks Anonymous puts the scope of losses to retailers thus:

"Add the cost of detection and arrest, trial and conviction, months or years of imprisonment; include the cost of welfare to provide for dependents of those convicted; then determine the personal income no longer contributing to the economy; place a value on the broken homes which follow; measure the cost of lost honor and reputation; total all of them and you have some idea what bad checks can cost you and your community."

At regular meetings of Checks Anonymous (made up of prisoners) members entertain guest speakers, including law professors, probation officers and businessmen. They pay regular dues, from earnings on prison jobs, which are used to repay victims of their crimes. They carry on a continuous flow of correspondence with offenders throughout the United States who have not yet been convicted, frequently talking them out of careers in bad-check passing, and with members who have been released from prison. Job training for honest jobs after offenders complete their terms is a critically important part of the program.

Regardless of whether we call bad check passing a "disease" or a crime, anything that turns prisoners toward a more law-abiding life, as Checks Anonymous does, is surely well worthwhile.

Life-Saving Blood

Twenty years ago, as anniversary articles recall, a French ship exploded causing America's greatest peacetime fire disaster at Texas City. Hospitals and community blood banks in many states rushed blood and plasma to the 3000 injured. As an example of how good can sometimes result from ill, the institutions involved later organized the American Association of Blood Banks with a view toward being better prepared for any future disasters. The Association, which now has 4,025 members in the 50 states and 25 foreign countries, maintains in Chicago a central file of rare blood donors. This file has saved the lives of many Americans and ill patients in other countries by finding rare matching blood when needed.

It has a system of regional laboratories for identifying rare blood types. It has established standards for blood banks and a voluntary inspection and accreditation system. Most important, it has organized a national clearinghouse system for the exchange of blood and blood credits in which the Red Cross cooperates. This permits blood given locally to be credited to a patient in a distant city and enables thousands to save on medical expenses.

But, before blood can be used or rushed somewhere, somebody must give it. If you are between 18 and 59 and in good health, you can give a pint of blood regularly at your blood bank or collection center. Your donation of blood may help save a life—possibly your own.

Consumers, Beware

If you had ever taken a load of wheat, ground it into flour, added various ingredients for special purposes, put in a little salt, water, yeast, perhaps some vitamin concentrate, worked the resulting dough, let it rise into loaves, and then baked it in an oven to make a loaf of bread, you would quickly see the reason for the spread between farm prices and the cost of finished food products.

One senator has made the suggestion that labels on food products should state the value of farm-produced ingredients to make consumers aware of the difference between the retail price and what the farmer receives for the basic raw material. The only trouble is that both farm prices and retail prices are constantly shifting according to the changing relationships between supply, demand and competition. Grocery clerks would be spending practically all their time pasting new labels on their merchandise. Consumers would really be confused, farmers would not receive any more, and retail prices would go up to cover the cost of label changing.

As The Wall Street Journal observes, "Like so many consumer-oriented schemes designed to be informational, this could only be less a help than an unintentional hindrance."

French H-Bomb Try Is Expected

Effort After Four Failures In Seven Years

FRANCE'S NEXT nuclear weapons test in the South Pacific is being watched with more than usual attention in the major capitals of the world.

This test may reveal whether France has finally succeeded in producing a hydrogen bomb. It is not generally realized that despite nearly seven years of tests, France has yet to achieve a hydrogen detonation. It is known there have been at least four such experiments, but all were failures.

Thus, while President De Gaulle sonorously pontificates about French "grandeur" and being a "major nuclear power," actually it is inferior to Red China, which exploded a hydrogen bomb in a plane drop several weeks ago after only two and a half years of tests.

During that time, the Chinese communists, starting Oct. 16, 1964, have conducted six atmospheric tests. The third, May 9, 1966, contained thermonuclear material, indicating it was a test of an H-bomb trigger. Five months later, Oct. 26, an atomic warhead of a 600-mile range missile was tested. On June 17, 1967, the Reds successfully detonated a hydrogen bomb with destructive power equivalent to 3 million tons of TNT.

STARTING FEB. 13, 1960, when France first exploded a small atomic device, it has held 11 atmospheric and one underground tests. None has been of megaton yield. The last test, June 27, 1967, was a device of "small power," less than 100 kilotons (100,000 tons of TNT).

The next South Pacific test may occur this month. Some experts are convinced this will be another atomic blast, and that France will not attain a hydrogen detonation until next spring.

These authorities estimate Red China now has an arsenal of some 50 small nuclear bombs. Also that by fall it will test another hydrogen weapon, and later this year a nuclear-armed medium range missile fired from a submarine. Peking's nuclear budget is estimated at around $500 million a year.

De Gaulle's vaunted frappe de force (a striking force of some 50 nuclear-armed bombers now approaching obsolescence) is dependent on U. S. aerial tankers to reach distant targets. France has no aerial tankers, and had to buy them from this country.

WHAT THE COMMIES DID—There was a stormy wrangle over official party policy of violent hostility toward Israel at the meeting of the National Committee of the U. S. Communist Party. Jewish members angrily denounced this stand and strongly defended Israel.

General secretary Gus Hall opened the two-day session in New York from which the press was barred, by trying to shut off discussion of the explosive Middle East crisis. He announced the party line had been laid down in his article in "The Worker."

Hall then launched into a scathing tirade against Israel as a "tool of U. S. monopolies that want to destroy the independent Arab nations in order to get control of their oil." He accused Israel of "betraying the anti-imperialist struggle," and demanded that Jewish communists oppose Israel as a champion of "bourgeois nationalism."

Paul Novick, editor of "Morning Freiheit," hotly defended Israel. He and other Jewish National Committee members contended Arab aggression had forced Israel into "a war of defense."

WITH TEMPERs flaring, Hall hurriedly called a recess. When the meeting resumed, he immediately raised the Vietnam issue, on which there was no dissension. All the 80 communist leaders present were agreed the United States is deeply in the wrong and North Vietnam wholly in the right.

During the ensuing secret deliberations, the Reds approved the following, proposed by Hall: Special committee to formulate plans "no how to fight and disrupt the draft."

Another special committee to "promote a peace and freedom ticket" in the 1968 presidential election.

A national conference to devise ways and means of increasing communist membership in trade unions.

A national conference to press the civil rights issue. For this purpose, Hall was authorized to publish and widely distribute a so-called "Open Letter to President Johnson and an Appeal to the American People, Black and White," written by Hall and general chairman Henry Winston.

Hall laid great emphasis on the need to put a "peace ticket" into next year's campaign. "The 1968 elections are going to be the elections of the crisis of the Johnson war policies," he told the party leaders. "It is to this that our electoral tactics will have to be geared. What is all-important is that there must be independent movements, independent politically and organizationally from the two old capitalistic parties; movements that run independent candidates."

STRANGE OMISSIONS—One of the most significant discussions in the nine-day Senate wrangle over censuring Senator Thomas Dodd occurred just before the final vote.

In a tense half hour exchange, Senator Carl Curtis, R-Neb., brought to light the following revealing admissions from three leaders of the Ethics Committee—John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman, Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, vice chairman, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., author of the resolution setting up the Committee.

The Ethics Committee did not investigate the motivation of the four Dodd employees who rifled his files of thousands of documents after he dismissed them for "misconduct."

The Committee did not ascertain whether several of these discharged employees were paid for turning these documents over to newsmen.

An FBI report detailing the "misconduct" of these employees was examined by the Committee, is in its files, but is not part of the published record of its proceedings against Dodd.

"I THINK," Curtis told the intently listening Senate, "that if Senator Dodd, for 18 long months, has his life bared before the public, no one who rises to accuse him should be granted a sanctuary of silence and protection for his person, his reputation and his future. I am left in a quandary by the silence of the Committee's record on this very important matter. I submit that it is the law of the land that the accusing parties must bring it out."

Senator Bennett, in response to direct questions by Curtis, admitted that the two dismissed women employees were "not asked whether they had been paid" to obtain and leak Dodd's papers. This was also conceded by Senator Cooper.

Similarly, they acknowledged there is nothing in the record to show "that any of these four former employees delivered any of this information to a law enforcement agency."

"My memory is," explained Bennett, "that they said they did not feel they could entrust it to a law enforcement agency." Cooper concurred.

Stennis, Bennett and Cooper argued it was not the Committee's responsibility to bring out fully the nature of the "misconduct" of the four employees, but Dodd's. They held he was offered the opportunity, but didn't use it.

CURTIS REFUSED to accept this explanation as justification for the Ethics Committee's failure to thoroughly explore the matter.

"A man's political life is at stake," said Curtis, "and I do not believe that a worried and confused defendant should have to assume the full responsibility for deficiencies in the record. I know that the history of crimes indicates that the most compelling motive for one person to destroy another is the knowledge that the destroyer himself can be destroyed by the knowledge the victim has."

"The Committee knew that something was 'wrong in Denmark,' but it was not gone into. There is nothing in the record to show whether their misconduct was such that they had to destroy Senator Dodd or he destroyed themselves. I think the Committee had an affirmative obligation to bring out all the evidence. It was not Senator Dodd's responsibility."

Senator Curtis penetrating questions and the Committee leaders' embarrassed admissions definitely played an important role in the Senate's 51 to 45 rejection of the recommendations that Dodd be censured for double billing.

PREDICTIONS—The Senate Ethics Committee will not complete a code of ethics for consideration by the Senate this year. There is no chance of any action on that at this session, and it's a tossup what will happen on such a code next year. There will definitely be no federal tax increase this year. The 6 per cent surtax President Johnson has been urging for months will go nowhere. Congress is in no mood to vote a tax increase, but may do so next year when faced with a budget deficit of $20 billion or more. The Army will establish a central repository of its historic books and papers at the War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. Basis of the new "Army Military History Research Collection" is a 20,000-volume library already at the War College. Many of the books go back to the 15th and 16th centuries. Army schools and post libraries are being asked to contribute to the new collection.

States Could Set Up Constitutional Meet

A COUPLE OF months ago, Senator Everett Dirksen had a nice little fire blazing on the matter of a proposed constitutional convention. More recently, the fire has seemed to subside. And now comes the prestigious American Enterprise Institute with a first-rate review of the whole proposition. Regard the fire as thoroughly banked. No such convention will be held.

What the AEI makes clear, in its pleasantly lucid publication, is that the relevant provisions of Article V of the Constitution are essentially meaningless. This is not the AEI's conclusion, for this non-partisan research institute draws none; it is rather a conclusion that arises inescapably from the array of uncertainties and procedural obstacles that the AEI describes.

If this conclusion is valid—that the "States' rights" provisions of Article V in fact are hollow phrases—it is bad news all around. For the Founding Fathers regarded the provisions as an essential part of the federal machinery. Here was another brake against excessive power in the Congress. Now it appears that the brake is useless; it is a mere constitutional ornament having no connection to political reality.

THESE SPECULATIONS arise, of course, from the movement among various State legislatures to obtain a constitutional amendment that would blunt the thrust of the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" decisions. Under Article V, constitutional amendments may be proposed in either of two ways: The first way—the way that always has been used—requires the approval of two-thirds of each House of Congress for an amendatory resolution, which then goes out to the States for ratification.

But the Founding Fathers, with great foresight, perceived that this procedure, standing alone, would permit a minority in either House effectively to freeze the Constitution by making it impossible for proposed amendments even to be submitted to the States. It is today mathematically possible for the congressional delegations from only five States to bar absolutely an amendment that might be desired by the other 45 States. Thus the alternative "second way" was devised.

UNDER THIS approach, Article V says that the Congress "shall call" a constitutional convention on the application of not fewer than two-thirds of the States. Two-thirds of fifty is thirty-four. The AEI's careful study discloses that over the past three years, 32 States actually have adopted resolutions, in one form or another, applying to the Congress to call a convention on the reapportionment issue. That is about the only positive and unambiguous statement that can be made. If Article V could be read literally, it would be necessary for only two more States to adopt such resolutions before the Congress would have to call a convention.

At first impression, it would seem unthinkable that members of the Congress, sworn to uphold the Constitution, could then ignore the plain mandate of the "shall call" provision. But the thought is thinkable, all right. For the language of Article V raises a hundred questions, and the Constitution is silent on all of them.

Thus: Many of these State applications date back to 1964; are they still valid, or are they out of date, in 1967? Suppose a current State legislature were to rescind an earlier resolution requesting a convention; would the rescission be effective? Four of the States that are known to have adopted convention calls—New Hampshire, Colorado, Utah and Georgia—apparently failed to send copies of their resolutions officially to the Congress; do these resolutions count in the total?

OTHER QUESTIONS: If a convention were called, when and where would it be held? How would its members be apportioned? Would it be wide open, or could its deliberations be restricted by the congressional act bringing the convention into being? How would the convention's proposed amendments be transmitted to the States for ratification? These are large questions; they could be answered, if at all, only by a bill in Congress. And to get a major bill through Congress is a tedious task.

Above and beyond all this, as the AEI review makes clear, is the overriding problem of enforceability. Suppose that it became clear that the Congress simply would not adopt a bill providing for a constitutional convention. What power could compel the Congress to act? Not the Supreme Court, which has no authority to mandamus its co-equal branch. Only "public relations and the ballot box," suggests the AEI, would succeed. And these forces, one assumes, could secure the desired amendment by the familiar congressional process.

In brief, the movement can be regarded as tailed. If two more States should adopt timely resolutions, some history and many speeches will be made. But don't hold your breath until this illusory convention comes to order.

BARRY GOLDWATER

'National Liberation' Wars Are Promised

ONE FIRM statement came out of the entire rigamarole of last week's summit meetings. That statement came at the end of the circus when, occupying the ring all by himself, Comrade Alexei Kosygin flatly, coldly and pointedly told a U.N. press conference that the Soviet Union firmly intends to continue to support "wars of national liberation."

There is no more important concept in the conflict of our times than these "wars of national liberation." They are the political devices by which communism alone has kept the entire world embroiled in violence ever since the end of World War II.

A war of national liberation is simply any effort directed by any political force against any government that supports or is supported by the United States or one of its major allies.

IT IS NOT necessary at the outset that the war of national liberation be altogether Communist. It is necessary only that it be against some power that opposes communism.

As such wars develop, however, they inevitably become more and more Communist-oriented in a full and technical sense. But a war of national liberation is not for anything so much as it is against—against the United States, the ultimate target of all Communist conflict. Communist policy regards the United States as the final fortress that must be taken before communism can control the world and its people.

There is no important statement of Communist policy that seriously modifies those points. Taken together, they are the root cause of the cold war, the definition of the cold war and the terms on which it will be ended.

THE NORTH Vietnamese-Soviet-Red Chinese assault against South Vietnam is a "war of national liberation" in Communist terms. Its goal is to bring a new and critical area of the world directly under Communist control and to deprive the United States and its allies of influence in or out from that area.

South Vietnam is a vital rice growing area. Red China needs food, as does the Soviet Union. Thus, South Vietnam must be "liberated" from independence and thrust behind the Communist curtain.

That war is costing us thousands of lives. And Comrade Kosygin, a guest in our homes via his U.N. press conference, could look us straight in the eyes and tell us that his guns, his advisers, his wealth, his agents would continue to fight us in Vietnam.

HE THEN TOOK off for Cuba.

There is another example of a "war of national liberation." Cuba is today nothing less than a Communist military base strategically close to our shores. It has nothing to offer in the way of social revolution or any other kind of revolution. It certainly hasn't liberated anyone. What it has done is to aim Communist power right across our southern borders and to aim Communist subversion into the homelands of our southern neighbors. And Kosygin let us know in no uncertain terms that his government will work to create more Cubas in the future.

The spirit of Glassboro or the spirit of Hollywood or whatever name you use was very simple in Communist terms: war to the finish against every non-Communist government and philosophy on earth.

"THIS IS TYPICAL of the work that is done in summer months," explains Ouachita Parish School Supt. Milton C. Hall (left) as he and S. R. Braley, principal of West Monroe High School, examine a hallway that is being painted at WMHS. Other jobs that must be done, the superintendent said, include cutting grass, ordering textbooks and library books, and repairing busses. (Staff Photo by Mike Windham)

Vacation Doesn't Mean End Of Work At School

It may be imagined that after school is out for the summer, school officials, administrators and teachers can loll back in their easy chairs for a well-earned rest.

Not so. Providing evidence to the contrary recently was a quartet of Ouachita Parish school system officials who went to Natchitoches to attend the First Annual School Service Personnel Conference on the Northwestern State College campus. Theme of the program was "Efficiency in Educational Services," and it was sponsored by the NSC School of Education.

Attending were Milton C. Hall, superintendent of the Ouachita Parish School Board; P. B. Mangum, assistant superintendent; Hugh V. Pitts, supervisor of transportation; and Harry Wheelis, supervisor of maintenance. Topics included business management, transportation, maintenance, instructional media and federal programs.

Hall explained that this NSC program was just one example of various workshops attended during summer months by administrators and teachers. He also cited a reading workshop at Northeast Louisiana State College, another reading workshop at Louisiana Tech, and, also at Tech recently, a workshop for music, string and band musicians.

Hall said yet another workshop was held recently at NLSC for physical education teachers and coaches. In addition attending to workshops, Hall explained, many teachers attend summer school to work toward advanced degrees, while others teach local summer school sessions. Some travel and go on vacations, while others work in other fields, such as stores, tutoring college students, or, perhaps, science teachers may work as laboratory technicians.

As for administrators, Hall explained, the big job is interviewing personnel for jobs, "not only teachers but other personnel."

Hall also noted that obtaining books and all sorts of teaching supplies must be done, saying, "This keeps Mr. J. M. Waldrop real busy." Waldrop, Hall explained, is elementary supervisor and is in charge of textbooks and library books.

Most important task of administrators, the Ouachita superintendent said, is getting personnel ready, textbooks chosen and ordered, as well as supplies for the coming year. "There's tires for busses, pencils, tape, Mimeograph supplies, pencil sharpeners, molding clay, etc.," he listed.

Then too, the superintendent explained, repairs on a large scale must be made, especially those that cannot be done conveniently during school days. For instance, he said, busses must be repaired and put in first class condition for the coming year. The buildings must be

Discarded Old Trousers Leads To Family Grief

MIAMI, Fla. AP — Volume Dingle, who dreamed for seven years of a house outside a slum, now has his house, but a broken dream.

The Dingles — Volume, his wife, Mary Lee, and their five children — moved into their new, six — room house on an integrated block at 400 NW 40 St. Tuesday.

But Mary Lee Dingle, a large woman who looks older than her 34 years, doesn't seem to notice the house. She can't forget last week, the week she tossed $1,180 of the family's hard — earned savings into a garbage can.

"I still don't know myself," she says. "I can't forget it."

Mrs. Dingle takes in washing. Her husband is an asphalt pourer for a construction company. Between them they bring home about $110 a week.

Of the $110, the Dingles saved $8 a week for seven years. Last week, with a nest egg of $2,100, they found the house they'd been waiting for.

Dingle withdrew $1,200 for the down payment. When the deal was held up over the weekend he hid the money in an old pair of trousers. And during the packing to move, his wife tossed the trousers into the garbage can.

The rag man picked up the pants, and the rag salvage company owner where they were taken said they didn't find the money. Contributions have started to trickle in, but the Dingles have abandoned hope of ever getting their money back.

Johnson Inks Bill To Curb Dairy Import

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson signed a proclamation Friday which will curb dairy imports. Johnson said in a statement that new quotas would limit imports to approximately one billion pounds of milk or its equivalent each year. Imports had soared above that level last year, prompting complaints from domestic dairy interests. The President said his proclamation "will reduce dairy imports to the normal level which prevailed before 1966."

between 100 and 200 million annually from lower government purchases of dairy products. "It will provide the consumer with more stable domestic production at no increase in milk prices." "It will still permit us to honor our trade commitments to other nations." The camel was one of the first animals domesticated by man.

Ouachita Parish Sheriff's department jailed Iva G. Lee, of Hamburg, Ark. Friday after he was returned here by Arkansas officials.

Lee is charged by the Ouachita Parish district attorney's office with forgery.

Late Friday Monroe police arrested Patricia Mae Powell, 20, of Rt. 4, Box 158, Monroe, on four counts of theft by check.

Richard Monroe, 21, of 909 Louise Anne St., was charged with theft by officers.

In West Monroe, officers charged Pearlina B. Cotton, 38, of 430 Lee St., with driving while intoxicated and disturbing the peace.

Jaycees Slate Fireworks Show

There will be an Independence Day fireworks display at 9 p.m. Tuesday at Neville High School Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Monroe Jaycees, the display will be open to the public.

Two professionals, Doug Smiley and Ricky Inzana will direct the one hour show.

There will be refreshment stands at the display and Auxiliary, will represent her observers may make donations, organization at the meeting.

Civic Center Attraction Is Lauded

The evening of December 8 promises to be an exciting one at the Monroe Civic Center.

"It's going to be the biggest night of entertainment in the city's history," Bill Lillyman, the center's director said Friday. "On one side you'll have the legitimate theater and in the conference hall there'll be a black-tie charity ball," he said.

Lillyman was speaking of the second night of the three-day "Hello Dolly" engagement and the evening of the Junior Charity League Ball.

Contracts to obtain the center's conference hall were signed Wednesday by Mrs. James Rivers, chairman of the Junior Charity League's ways and means committee and president of the group, Mrs. E. F. Whorthern.

The ball, which will be open to the public, will feature music by Harry James and his orchestra.

Officials said the conference hall of the Civic Center can accommodate the 750 couples who are expected to attend the affair, which will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and will be blacktie.

Survey Set On Drainage In Ouachita

Work is expected to begin immediately on a survey of area drainage following an agreement by the State Department of Public Works.

The survey will be made of facilities of Ouachita Parish Gravity Drainage District No. 1. The Ouachita Parish Police Jury and the City of West Monroe had requested the study.

West Monroe Mayor W. B. "Bert" Hatten, president of the board of commissioners of the drainage district, received a letter to this effect Thursday from Calvin T. Watts, assistant director of the Department of Public Works in Baton Rouge.

In part, the letter said that the department "will conduct a survey to determine the adequacy and condition of the existing drainage facilities in the City of West Monroe, in Ward 5 and in your Drainage District, Louisiana."

The letter also noted the department will make recommendations and prepare an estimate of the cost of a new drainage system.

Administration Meeting Slated

E. Dupont, department chief of cec, the display will be open to the public.

Two professionals, Doug Smiley and Ricky Inzana will direct the one hour show.

There will be refreshment stands at the display and Auxiliary, will represent her observers may make donations, organization at the meeting.

The Ouachita Chapter is sponsored by the Northeast Shrine Club, and the Western Star Lodge of Monroe, who will host the event.

Louis Bernhardt, the chapter's master counselor, requested that the initiation candidates be at the lodge by 2 p.m. and DeMolays should be there by noon.

West Monroe Ready To Sign On Lighting

What appears to be the last local hurdle in the lighting of Interstate - 20 through the Twin Cities was cleared Friday when West Monroe Mayor W. B. "Bert" Hatten officially notified the State Department of Highways he was ready to sign an electrical contract.

Once contracts are signed with West Monroe and Monroe the highway department will be ready to proceed with final plans and bid letting for light installation through the Twin Cities, according to 5th District highway board member James W. Moore of Monroe.

Moore said there were certain unnamed safety standards to meet before final federal approval, but he indicated these would present no problems.

District Engineer A. A. Bradlock was informed by department officials in Baton Rouge Thursday that the main problem preventing light installation was repeated changes from Washington in required light and sign standards.

Moore said the big problem had been getting West Monroe to agree to a contract with Louisiana Power and Light Co., to furnish electricity.

The State Department of Highways will install the lights on a 90-10 matching fund basis shared with the federal government, but the cities of Monroe and West Monroe must pay the electrical bills and maintain the lights.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard has been ready to furnish electricity since Interstate-20 was completed through the city. Monroe produces its own electrical power while West Monroe purchases electricity from Louisiana Power and Light Co.

The electricity bill in West Monroe alone will be over $4,000 annually, according to Hatten. He said a tight budget has prevented the city from agreeing earlier on an electrical contract.

Lights were promised, without reservation, on Interstate-20 through the Twin Cities by Moore in a statement to the press in the spring of 1966. He said the lights would be installed by the time I-20 was completed to the U.S. 165 bypass. The bypass was dedicated in mid-December, 1966.

This was done however before the administration of Mayor Hatten took office in July, 1966, and Hatten has since been laboring with several financial difficulties including inadequate sewerage disposal.

Meanwhile, Moore has issued a statement regarding the installation of street lighting on Interstate - 20.

Moore who is Fifth District representative on the board, said the delay in installing the lights had been the failure of West Monroe to furnish electricity.

Moore said that the statement in the local news medias that lighting on Interstate 20 in Monroe had been delayed indefinitely, was absolutely incorrect.

He said, without any reflection on the present administration of the City of West Monroe "for they are doing all possible," that lighting on the Interstate in Monroe and West Monroe had been held up since early last year because of the inability of the City of West Monroe to devise a means to furnish the electricity for the Interstate lighting. It is required by the Federal Bureau of Roads that the local governing authority provide the electricity for Interstate lighting for the fixtures erected by state highway departments on a 90-10 per cent federal-state basis.

AWAIT CONTRACT

The Federal Bureau refused to let the Louisiana Department of Highways let a contract for lighting through the City of Monroe without also lighting the City of West Monroe at the same time. Consequently, the plans for lighting the two cities were complete but were laid aside for this reason.

Moore said that, according to highway officials in Baton Rouge, just as soon as a written, signed agreement was received from the City of West Monroe to the effect that they will furnish the electricity, the plans will be let to contract after they have been revised to meet the new federal department of transportation's safety regulations which include break-away type lighting standards.

It is our understanding at the highway department that the City of West Monroe has now reached an agreement with the Louisiana Power & Light Company to furnish the electricity and are prepared to sign and forward the required agreement to the Highway Department.

Moore said that Interstate lighting has only been turned on in one section in New Orleans and one section in Baton Rouge and that other contracts are underway in these two cities. One contract is underway in Lake Charles and a contract for one section in Shreveport was let last month, both of which have now moved ahead of Monroe and West Monroe because of the delays as outlined.

Said Moore: "The new mayor of West Monroe, Bert Hatten, and I have been working very closely on the problem of lighting and also are currently working on the moving of utilities on the new four-lane project of North 7th Street and U.S. 80 in West Monroe. Mayor Hatten's efforts to overcome West Monroe's financial problems are to be commended."

Federal Aid Check Given To Columbia

COLUMBIA (Special) — The Town of Columbia was presented a federal check for $1,888.83 in brief ceremonies at town hall Friday morning to help the town in its project to eliminate dumping raw sewage into the Ouachita River.

J. H. Arceneaux, chairman of the Louisiana ASC Committee, presented the check to James G. Sherman of Columbia. Accompanying him to Columbia was C. E. Slack, state executive director of the Louisiana ASC office.

Present for the ceremony was Royce Johnson, county office manager of the Caldwell Parish ASC office. The money was given the town to help purchase a 15 acre site on which the town plans to build an oxidation pond for treating sewage. The land will cost $7,650.

The federal funds was made available under the Greenspan Agreement, whereas the land to be used for the sewerage treatment pond was shifted from farm land to community improvement property.

Columbia was the first stop the two state men made. Later in the date, they presented similar checks to Rayville,

NEW YORK (UPI)—This court will not deny the equal protection of the law to the unwashed, unshod, unkempt and uninhibited.

So ruling, Criminal Court Judge Herman Weinkrantz Friday freed 39 hippies arrested in a Memorial Day clash with police in New York's East Greenwich Village.

The long-haired, mod-attired hippies were arrested by more than 100 police officers when they refused orders to stop playing guitars, tom-toms, bongos, cymbals and bells at an improvised "be-in" in Tompkins Square Park on the Lower East Side.

Weinkrantz dismissed the charges of resisting arrests and disorderly conduct and told why in a 2,000-word decision.

"The arrests for disorderly conduct made by the police officers were, in the main, for acts which had taken place before their arrival at the scene," the judge said.

He ruled that the arrests were not lawful.

A near-riot developed when police used nightsticks to break up the hippie gathering.

A fatigue-wearing, ex-defendant presented Weinkrantz with a wooden ring Friday before departing on the one-mile trek uptown to his East Village pad.

Others tried to show their appreciation by placing leis over the heads of court officials. They were restrained.

Reds Claim U.S. Bombs Hit Vessel

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. warplanes may have bombed a Soviet cargo ship in Haiphong harbor while attacking nearby North Vietnamese anti-aircraft positions, the Pentagon said Friday.

The incident—the second in less than a month—drew a "resolute protest" from Moscow and a Soviet demand for "strict punishment of the guilty."

"Although pilots are under instructions to avoid Soviet shipping," the Defense Department said, "it is possible that certain of the ordnance directed at the anti-aircraft site fell on the ship."

It said the air defense installation under attack was about 500 yards from the ship. The Pentagon ordered an investigation.

It avoided any flat statements that might boomerang, as happened June 18 when it had to eat a denial that American planes had struck another Soviet freighter at a small port northeast of Haiphong. Moscow reported one killed and several wounded in this episode.

The Soviet government identified the ship involved in the latest incident as the Mikhail Frunze. It said the merchantman was damaged but made no mention of any death or injuries to Soviet crewmen aboard. The Russians reported the ship struck June 29 by an antipersonnel bomb of the type often used against anti-aircraft batteries.

At the same time, the official East German news agency ADN claimed that American bombers had hit four merchant ships while attacking oil installations near Haiphong.

It identified the ships as the Frunze, the British vessel Kingford, the Italian ship Bertin, and a Chinese craft called Kong Ky157. All were damaged, ADN said.

Oak Grove and Newellton. According to Mayor Sherman, the town has hired engineers who are now drawing up plans for the new oxidation pond and a bond issue will have to be voted on by the citizens of Columbia to build the badly needed structure.

"We hope to present the plans to the people of Columbia for a vote by the end of this year," Mayor Sherman said.

Graebner Ousted; Seven U.S. Girls Advance To Round Of 16

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John Newcombe, third seed, Australian, knocked out Clark Graebner in three straight sets Friday and left Charlie Pasarell as the sole American survivor in the men's singles at the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships.

Graebner, 23-year-old from Beachwood, Ohio, saved 16 set points in the first set against Newcombe in a tooth-gritting effort to keep the match alive.

Finally the young American went down 17-15 in that vital first set and then all the steam left him in the blistering heat of No. 1 court. He dropped the next two sets, and Newcombe won 17-15, 6-3, 6-4.

Pasarell, 23-year-old former ball boy from Santurce, Puerto Rico, plays Tomas Koch of Brazil in Saturday's round of 16.

Six American girls are through to the round of 16, and Billie Jean King, the defending champion, still looked a safe bet to retain her title — though she has played only once to reach the fourth round.

The first set in the Newcombe-Graebner battle was a

Mantle Added To List Of AL All-Star Team

BOSTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' aging but still dangerous slugger, heads a list of nine additional players named Friday to the American League All-Star team.

Mantle, who has appeared in 14 All-Star games and has been named to three other All-Star squads, was joined by first baseman Don Mincher and shortstop Jim Fregosi of California, second baseman Dick McAuliffe of Detroit, third baseman Max Alvis of Cleveland, catcher Paul Casanova of Washington and Andy Etchebarren of Baltimore, and outfielders Tommie Agee of Chicago and Tony Conigliaro of Boston.

American League President Joe Cronin announced the additions, selected by Manager Hank Bauer of the world champion Baltimore Orioles to back up the starting team announced earlier.

Bauer, who will direct the American League team in the 38th classic July 11 at Anaheim, Calif., also will name eight squad, these selections are to be announced Sunday.

The starting team chosen by a vote of players, coaches and man Harmon Killebrew and second baseman Rod Carew, both of Minnesota, third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, shortstop Rico Petrocelli of Boston, catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit, and outfielders Frank Robinson of Baltimore, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and Tony Oliva of Minnesota. Oliva was a replacement for Al Kaline of Detroit, who led the voting but will have to miss the game due to a bone in his hand.

Mantle, shifted from the outfield to first base this season, played in the All-Star games of 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958 and 1964 as well as both games in 1959, 1960 and 1961. He has been named to more All-Star squads than any other active American League player and is tied with Kaline at 14 in number of games played.

Mincher, McAuliffe, Alvis, Fregosi and Casanova all finished second in the voting at their respective positions, while Mantle was the third choice at first base and Agee was sixth in the outfield, but Bauer went against the balloting in his other selections.

He skipped past fifth-leading outfield vote getter Ken Berry

Robinson May Be Out For 2 Weeks

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — It could be two days to two weeks or even longer before slugger Frank Robinson returns to action for the Baltimore Orioles, the team physician said Friday.

Robinson suffered a brain concussion in a collision with Al Weis of the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night.

Dr. Leonard Wallenstein said that Robinson is "certainly in no condition to go up to the plate now because he's seeing double with one eye. The best thing for him now is rest."

Robinson was released Thursday from Sinai Hospital.

"Nobody knows how long it'll take for his vision problem to clear up," Wallenstein went on. "It could be two to five days, seven to 10 days, maybe even two weeks or longer."

"Frank's headaches cleared up a little today, but the vision certainly wasn't any better. He had a nasty concussion but the head swelling has gone down and he had his equilibrium and all, no problem there."

A slow recovery from the concussion could hurt Robinson's bid for a second straight Triple Crown.

He still led the American League in batting with an average of .337 and in runs batted in with 59. But Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins leads in home runs with 22, one more than Robinson, and has only two fewer rbi than the Oriole slugger.

Pitcher Knocks Winning Homer

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Claude Osteen lined a home run into the right field seats leading off the ninth inning giving the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-4 victory over Houston Friday night.

Osteen's smash off Don Wilson was his second of the season and gave him his 11th victory against seven losses. It broke a 4-4 tie that had lasted since the third inning.

Osteen left with one out and one in the ninth and Ron Perroski got the last two.

The Astros created the deadlock in the third when Julio Gotay and Jim Wynn each singled in runs. Wynn drove in the first of two runs in the opening inning with a sacrifice fly after Joe Morgan tripled. Eddie Matthews singled in the other run.

Osteen drove in the first of four Dodger runs in the second with a sacrifice fly and Wes Parker capped the rally with a three-run inside-the-park homer, a hit that bounced over right fielder Rusty Staub's head.

Pros Deliver Ultimatum To PGA

MONTREAL (AP) — The touring professionals of golf, including all the great names of the game, threatened again Friday to pull out of the PGA and form their own organization unless the group meets their demands for more control of the tour.

The players, in a unanimous action, gave the PGA until next Wednesday to meet their demands or they "would regretfully refrain from playing in the PGA championship and would be forced to charter a new organization to perform business in 1968."

"It's squarely up to the PGA now," said Doug Ford, a member of the Players Tournament Committee. "If they want to have a tournament in Denver, they have to agree."

The PGA championship, one of the four major titles in the game, is scheduled to start in Denver July 20.

"We don't really want to do it, to pull out of the PGA," Ford said, "but we are unanimous in our stand. We'll do it if we have to."

In Washington, Max Elbin, president of the PGA, said the Executive Committee must maintain the veto power in order to continue its control of the organization.

"They want the entire veto power and don't want the Executive Committee to have any say," said Elbin, the pro at Burning Tree Country Club in suburban Maryland. "If we give up the veto power over the tournament sections, we have to give it up for all the other sections. Then we wouldn't have any organization."

"We've gone as far as we could," he said. "If they misunderstand, it's amazing."

Elbin said he was informed of the newest action by the touring professionals in a telegram from Dan Sikes of the Players' Committee Thursday. He said he spelled out the Executive Committee's views in an answering telegram to Sikes.

Elbin said when any matter comes to arbitration, the PGA Executive Committee will abide by the decision of those selected to arbitrate.

"Beyond that, the PGA must maintain its veto for any segment of the organization," he said. "We can't wipe ourselves clear entirely of the tournament players."

Ford said about 90 players attended an emergency meeting held behind closed doors Wednesday night.

"The only big name that wasn't there was Arnold Palmer," Ford said. "He has supported us before, has signed a petition asking for more control, and I'm sure he would go along with that."

"The only player who hasn't signed that petition is Doug Sanders, and he said the only reason he hasn't is because he hasn't been at the tournaments where the petition was circulated."

The PGA represents both the touring pros and club pros, with club pros outnumbering the tourists about 20-1.

"We don't really need the PGA," Ford said.

"The only reason we'd need them is when a player gets older, wants to go off the tour and take a club job. Then the PGA could retaliate by not allowing him to play in his section."

"But what difference does that make? There's a bunch of us, four or five, who have been active in this so-called revolt from the start, that they've got ticked for the black list for life."

Ford said that the players' ultimatum has been telegraphed and telephoned to members of the PGA Executive Committee, including PGA President Max Elbin of Bethesda, Md.

"We haven't yet had any response," Ford said.

The current players' stand is the strongest they have yet taken in the old and extremely complex struggle with PGA executives over control of the tour.

"The tour, on the surface, looks to be in good shape," Ford said. "But it isn't. It stinks. You get under the surface and you find a lot of things — thinks involving contracts, TV money and such like — that aren't right."

The present stand involves a critical veto power held by the PGA Executive Committee on matters pertaining to the tour. The controversy came to a head when the PGA exercised the veto for the first time recently in turning down a proposed $175,000 tournament sponsored by Frank Sinatra.

That prompted a meeting between players and PGA executives in Cleveland last week. The players understood that arrangements were made whereby the veto power would be negotiated. But nothing was committed to paper. It later developed that the PGA did not interpret the agreement in that fashion and felt it still had the veto power.

That led to the players' two-hour closed door meeting earlier this week in which they agreed on the present stand. They are insisting that their interpretation of the Cleveland agreement be accepted.

"They (the PGA) have until Wednesday," Ford said. "Or it's no tournament in Denver."

Ortiz Favored To Retain Title Against Sugar Ramos Tonight

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Carlos Ortiz is favored to retain the world lightweight boxing title tonight against the challenge of Cuban Sugar Ramos in a rematch of their disputed bout in Mexico City last Oct. 22.

The bout, scheduled for 10 p.m. EDT at Hiram Bithorn Stadium, is expected to draw about 20,000 fans and a gate of over $180,000.

However, it has been raining for four days and there always is the possibility of a postponement of an outdoor show. Promoter Bob Leith said the bout would be rescheduled for Monday night if a postponement is necessary.

Ortiz was awarded a technical knockout last October when referee Billy Conn stopped the fight at 1:45 of the fifth round after Ramos had suffered a deep cut over the left eye.

There was wild confusion when the doctor ordered the fight to continue. As Ortiz and the referee left the ring, bottles and beer cans were thrown by the Mexicans in protest.

Although the World Boxing Council declared Ramos champ and later ruled the title vacant, the World Boxing Association and New York State continued to recognize Ortiz as the king. The 30-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker successfully defended the crown again on Nov. 28, stopping Flash Elorde of the Philippines.

Most of the island's boxing experts favor Ortiz to win before the 10th round of the 15-round match. Many agree that Ramos, 25, could end it all with one solid punch. The challenger dropped Ortiz in the second round of their previous fight.

Ortiz takes a 47-5-1 record into the bout. He has scored 17 knockouts. Ramos, who held the world featherweight title in 1963-64, has a 49-3-3 record with 35 knockouts. However, Ortiz never has been stopped and Ramos has failed to go the route twice.

Ramos has not climbed through the ropes since the Mexico City bout. Ortiz's only start was the Elorde match in New York's Madison Square Garden.

"I have never felt better in my life," said the confident champion. "Making the weight this time won't be any problem. You can be sure the fight is not going to last too long."

Ramos also was optimistic. "I feel stronger than for the last fight in Mexico," he said. "And last time I found Ortiz easy to hit with my right hand. I should not have any trouble getting rid of him early."

Ortiz is supposed to take on Ismael Laguna, the former 135-pound champ and No. 1 challenger, if he defeats Ramos.

The record gate for a bout in Puerto Rico is 17,658 paying $100,000 for the Ortiz-Laguna rematch in 1955 when Ortiz regained the title. This will be his 11th lightweight championship match, plus five for the junior welter crown he once held.

Williams, Santo Blast Cubs By Reds

CHICAGO (AP) — Home runs by Billy Williams and Ron Santo propelled the high flying Chicago Cubs to a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Friday.

The triumph was the fourth straight and 11th in the last 12 games for the second place club who finished in the National League cellar last year.

Bill Hands, who aided his own cause with a two-run single in the sixth, picked up his fourth victory in seven decisions but needed help in the seventh after hurling 6-1-3 hitless innings.

With one out in the seventh, Hands lost his no-hitter on a looping single to center by Tony Perez. A double by Deron Payton and singles by Don Pavlich and Lee May chased Hands in favor of Cal Koonce after three runs were in.

The Cubs had runners on first and third with none out in the first two innings but each time starter Jim Maloney managed to get out of trouble without anyone crossing the plate.

In the fourth, however, Santo drew a walk and went to third on a single by Ernie Banks. Santo scored on Al Spangler's sacrifice fly, and Randy Hundley tripled Banks home. Ted Savage then backed away from a pitch but the ball hit his bat and Hundley scored while Savage was being tossed out.

Williams slammed his 14th homer with two out in the fifth. Hands' two-run single made it 6-0 in the sixth and Santo's 14th homer came with two out in the seventh.

The Reds picked up two runs in the eighth after two were out when Vada Pinson doubled. Perez walked and Johnson and Pavlich contributed run scoring singles.

Conigliaro Hits 430-Foot Winning Rap

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tony Conigliaro's three-run homer and clutch relief pitching by John Wyatt carried Boston to a 5-3 victory over Kansas City Friday night.

Conigliaro's 430-foot shot landed in a parking lot beyond the left field fence in the sixth inning after Joe Foy had doubled and Carl Yastrzemski walked with two out.

That gave Gary Bell a 4-1 cushion but the A's rallied in the eighth with three straight hits producing two runs. Then Wyatt slammed the door, saving Bell's fifth victory this month.

George Scott accounted for Boston's first run with a solo homer in the fifth against loser Jim Nash, who also allowed Conigliaro's 10th shot an inning later.

Kansas City knocked out Bell on Mike Hersherberger's single, a double by Ramon Webster and Rick Monday's single. But Wyatt fanned Danny Cater, ending the rally.

The Red Sox scored their final run on Jerry Adair's ninth inning single.

Twins' Roof Blows Top

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Friday night's baseball game between the Washington Senators and Minnesota Twins was postponed after a wind and rain storm apparently ripped off a small section of the roof at Metropolitan Stadium and sent fans into a near state of panic.

Time was called as a driving rain that reduced visibility to 100 feet sent the estimated 15,000 spectators racing for any cover they could find, fearing a tornado was about to strike the stadium. A few clamored into the press box.

No tornado funnel was spotted in the darkness as the stadium lights went out, but the deafening roar of the wind led many to believe a tornado had passed over the semiopen stadium.

Play was suspended with two out in the last of the first inning after Minnesota had taken a 1-0 lead on Tony Oliva's run scoring double.

Nominees for the 1967 Kentucky Derby ran from A to Z—Admiral Raddy to Zip Pocket.

Javier Helps Stem Cards Backsliding

NEW YORK (AP) — Julian Javier drove in three runs and Larry Jaster held off New York as the National League-leading St. Louis Cardinals beat the Mets 4-1 Friday night, ending a three-game losing string.

The Cardinals wrapped up the game with three runs in the first inning against Bob Shaw after the first two hitters were retired. Roger Maris doubled and scored on Orlando Cepeda's hit. Tim McCarver doubled and Mike Shannon walked to load the bases. Javier followed with a two-run single.

Javier drove in the final St. Louis run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly after singles by McCarver and Shannon.

Jerry Grote homered in the fourth for the only Mets' run, but they had plenty of chances against Jaster, 5-3.

He stranded a man on second in the first, three runners in the second, two more in the third and two in the sixth.

Phils Split With Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Hart's two-run single in the sixth inning broke a tie and started San Francisco to a 12-3 victory over Philadelphia behind a 19-hit attack in the nightcap of a two-night doubleheader Friday night.

Chris Short, pitching for the first time since tearing a ligament in his left knee May 23, hurled the Phillies to a 10-3 triumph in the opener with a seven-hitter.

Hart's bases-loaded hit off reliever Dick Farrell broke a 3-3 deadlock and Ollie Brown drove in another run before the inning was over. The Giants added four more runs in the seventh, one on a homer by Tito Fuentes, and two in the eighth as Juan Marichal breezed to his 11th victory against six losses.

Hart and Brown each drove in four runs in the Giants' barrage against six Phillies pitchers, including Cookie Rojas, an infielder-outfielder who hurled a scoreless ninth.

Three doubles by Johnny Callison, a two-run single by Tony Gonzalez, a two-run double by Bobby Wine and Short's three-run double helped the Phillies southpaw to his fourth victory in six decisions.

The 20-game winner last season, who missed a month this year after being injured in a collision during pregame practice, gave up a three-run homer in the third. Dick Dietz for the Giants' only runs as the Phillies won their fourth straight before losing.

Clay Claims Liston Could Be Champ

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cassius Clay, dethroned as heavyweight boxing champion by the World Boxing Association, said Friday Sonny Liston could whip all eight boxers the WBA has selected for an elimination series to find a new titleholder.

He scoffed, at the series at a news conference, saying:

"Boxing is no good if the people don't pay. The American people are too smart to pay to see those boys. Making a home-made champion is no good."

Actually, he has beaten some of the eight, hasn't fought others.

"I'm watching Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry," indicating he thinks they're the best of the eight.

Clay also said, "I'm deciding right now on retirement," but he refused to make such an announcement now.

"The ministry comes first," he went on, and said his spiritual manager, Herbert Muhammad, is not now managing him but is busy with religious work.

He said he writes poetry no longer, that he had done it "just to promote fights. Now that I have the title, I don't need poetry."

Alston Names 2 Bums To Staff

CINCINNATI (AP) — Five of the pitchers Manager Walt Alston picked for this year's All-Star game at Anaheim, Calif., are rookies—at least as far as the annual classic is concerned.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' pilot named his eight-man pitching staff Friday and is scheduled to announce the rest of his selections for the July 11 contest next Wednesday. These will include at least one Cincinnati player since no Reds have been named to the team so far.

Alston's selections were left-handers Claude Osteen of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Denny Lemaster of the Atlanta Braves and Mike Cuellar of the Houston Astros.

He also named five right-handers, including three veterans of All-Star game competition—Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants and Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals. The other two right-handers are Fergie Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs and rookie Tom Seaver of the New York Mets.

The top boxers signed contracts to meet in the 15-round match will be part of a tournament designed to produce a successor to Cassius Clay, who has been stripped of his title in the United States.

In the other eliminations, promoted by Sports Action of New York, Ernie Terrell will box Thad Spencer and Jimmy Ellis.

will take on Lottis Martin in a doubleheader at the Houston, Texas, Astrodome Aug. 5.

Floyd Patterson, the former champ, is expected to box Jerry Quarry in a rematch at a later date in the fourth bout of the series.

Bonavene, a South American version of Clay in the talking department, was in great voice when he met reporters at the Frankfurt airport on his way to the signing.

"I fear him apart," said Bonavena, only slightly hampered by the fact that he speaks only halting English and no German.

"He have no chance. He lose before his own fans."

"Clay so afraid he rather go to jail for five years than fight me. Mildenberger not so afraid but stupid to fight me with no chance. I am the next world champion. Clay say he greatest but he never say greatest what. I say I greatest—greatest boxer."

Bonavene said he might stay in Germany for two days and then go south to France.

"Lots sun, swimming," said Oscar. "Oscar have much fun. I no think Mildenberger any good. I easy win."

Bonavene is ranked No. 3 by the World Boxing Association and Mildenberger is No. 1. The German boxer was stopped by Clay in the 12th round last September.

Art Wall Finds Range While New Breed Fades In Canadian

MONTREAL (AP) — Steady Art Wall carefully carved out a one-under-par 70 Friday and took the second round lead in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship while the new breed that dominated the first day activity fired and fell back.

Wall, a greying veteran from Pocono Manor, Pa., had a 137 for two trips over the compact, 6,600 yard, par 71 Montreal Municipal course and enjoyed a two stroke lead over Billy Casper and Lale Douglass.

Casper, two-time U.S. Open champ, had a one-under 70, and Douglass had one of the day's best rounds, a four-under 67 with seven birdies and three bogeys.

Young Laurie Hammer, the 24-year-old who held the first round lead, went to a 74 for 140.

He was tied at that figure with Steve Reid, who had a 73 after an opening 67. Gardner Dickinson, 72, Australian veteran Kel Nagle, a former British Open champ, who had a two-under 69, and Argentina veteran Roberto Devicenzo, 71.

Don January, 71, and Jack Nicklaus, 72, were tied at 141. Arnold Palmer, who came in with a 70, was one of a large group of 142.

"I played a little better but didn't score as well," said Nicklaus. "It was still half sloppy."

Palmer, who had four birds and three bogeys, said he was "driving a little better. I'm not satisfied with my score, but I have to be satisfied with my position. I wasn't putting very well, and my chipping was off."

"I played pretty good today," Wall said, "but I'm little disappointed. I made a couple of bad shots, on 16 and 18 and didn't give myself much chance for birdies."

He started off with a 40 foot birdie putt on No. 1 "which really gave me a life." He added birdies at Nos. 6 and 12 on putts of three and 10 feet before running into trouble.

He bogeyed the 13th after driving into a trap and topping his second shot and took another bogey on 17—the trouble hole—when he missed the green.

"I played much better today," said Wall. "It was playable today. It wasn't yesterday."

The 17th is a par 3, shortened to 180 yards for Friday's round. The putting surface is almost completely devoid of grass, and the players can't stop the ball on it.

Palmer was laughing about it. "What else can you do?" he said. "In all my history of golf, I never saw anything like it. It's ridiculous. I can't even say, 'It's not too bad.' If I ever saw a hole that they should let you pick up on after two putts, that's it."

Casper, normally one of the steadier players in the game, had an erratic first nine, matching three birdies with as many bogeys. He got under par to stay with a 12-foot birdie putt on No. 15.

Douglass, 31, a 150-pound, 2-foot-2 stringbean, called his 67 "my best round in two months."

His iron game put him in position for three birdies on putts of less than four feet and sank four more birds on putts of 12, 15, 12 and 15 feet.

He got a bogey on No. 1 by three putts, was in a trap on No. 8 and chipped past the hole on No. 11.

Hammer said he "wasn't nervous. I was hitting the ball pretty good, and I just get nervous when I'm not hitting it well. It was just an interesting round. I just didn't give myself any chances for birdies."

He had 35 putts, no birdies and three bogeys, all after he had driven into traps.

Guntersville was 282.2 miles per hour.

The record had been held by the late Donald Campbell at 277.33 m.p.h.

The record fell on Taylor's second attempt Friday.

Earlier in the day, he had throttled the Hustler to 299.181 miles per hour going north but his return speed of only 250.726 kept his average below Campbell's mark.

The 299 was the quickest any man has ever traveled the mile over water, although Campbell was being clocked at 320 m.p.h. when his boat blew up and he was killed several months ago.

Campbell's top speed in setting his record was 292 m.p.h.

Water conditions were excellent Friday for Taylor and his attempts were made after start-up trouble in the 2½ ton jet boat was solved.

This was the final day of a current sanction by the American Power Boat Association for the Downey, Calif., racer to try for the record.

Various troubles had hindered him for several days, including damage to the front end of the sleek craft Thursday when it made one run at 237 m.p.h.

Aussies Beaten MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Oregon State University's basketball team, with Billy Nickleberry contributing 16 points, routed the Melbourne All-Stars Friday night 70-54.

It was the opening game of the Victorian section of the Americans' Australian tour. Oregon State led at the half 38-27.

Lacoste 'Irons' Way Into 2nd Round Women's Open Lead

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Catherine Lacoste, a captivating 22-year-old amateur from Paris, shamed America's finest lady pro with a one-under-par 70 Friday that shot her into a five-stroke lead after 36 holes in the National Women's Open Golf Championship.

"I could have had a fantastic round," the stocky mademoiselle said after tying the tournament's halfway record with a score of 141.

The mark previously had been set by Mary Mills in winning the 1963 Women's Open at Kenwood in Cincinnati.

Now the tomboyish French girl with the inoffensive cocky air is going for three other marks in the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. If she maintains the pace, she can become the youngest player ever to win the tournament, the first amateur and the first foreigner.

"Pros? No, they don't bother me," Catherine said, shrugging her shoulders. "They are people, just like me. If you play well, you can beat them. If you don't, they beat you."

Playing over the hilly, 6,191-yard Cascades course, Miss Lacoste overtook the first round leader, Sandra Haynie, on the first three holes and went on to take an imposing five-stroke lead over 25-year-old Susie Maxwell, 71-75 and Australian Marie Masters, 73-73, tied for second at 146.

Shirley Englehorn, a 26-year-old veteran from Caldwell, Idaho, was in fourth place with 147-147, followed by a trio of fellow barnstormers tied at 149 — Miss Haynie, who drove and putted badly for a 79; Mrs. Murle Lindstrom, 1962 winner, 75-74, and 6-foot-3 Carol Mann, the 1965 champion, who rallied with a 33 on the back nine for a 72.

They were the only players in the select 94-woman field to break 150 for two tours of the par 71 Cascades course, with its thick clumps of trees, myriad water and sand hazards and tricky, lightning-fast greens.

Tied at 150 were former champion Louise Suggs, 76-74, Donna Caponi, 74-76, Clifford Ann Creed, 75-75, and Sybil Griffin, 71-79. Defending champion Sandra Spuzich made the cut with 77-79-156.

Mickey Wright, four-time winner and rated the greatest woman player in the world before she went into semiretirement 2½ years ago, shot a wild 80 for 155.

"I did everything but whiff for the green. The ball found the ball," the tall, bespectacled market counselor from Dallas, Tex., said. "I shanked the ball, hit into the water, drove into traps, and three putts. You just do much worse than that."

Just as Miss Wright was sent to the clubhouse, Miss Lacoste was almost flawless from tee to green. She missed only three greens in regulation and was putting for birdies — from 10 to 12 feet on almost every hole.

She was four under par going to the short 15th, where she hit her tee shot next to a road, chipped dangerously over a trap and missed a 10-foot putt.

On the next hole — the 534-yard, par 5 16th — she hit her second into a fairway bunker and instead of playing safe went for water instead of, with the penalty shot, she took a double bogey 7.

In her Friday round, Catherine birdied the second hole from 10 feet, lost the stroke when she three-putted from 10 feet at the seventh, then birdied five of the next six holes. She sank what she called four yarders — 12 feet — at the ninth, 11th and 12th and rolled one in from 60 feet off the edge of the green at the 14th.

"It was a monster," she said proudly.

An amateur not only has never won the Open but never has beaten the pros on the weekly tour. The youngest ever to win the event was Mickey Wright, who was 23 years, four months when she won the first of her four Opens in 1958.

The Indians sent the opener into extra innings by scoring a ninth inning run as reliever Eddie Watt walked Don Demeter with the bases loaded.

Max Alvis' third single of the game, started the winning rally in the 14th off pitcher Walter Walker and Chuck Hinton walked. With two out, Davalillo sliced a broken-bat single to left, scoring Alvis.

Cleveland jumped into a 3-0 lead in the opening inning and then was held hitless by starter Pete Richter until Duke Sims homered in the seventh, tying the score 4-4.

Baltimore regained the lead 5-4 in the bottom of the seventh when Powell doubled home his second run of the game.

Orlando Pena, who hurled the final run in the eighth inning for Cleveland in relief of winner George Culver, started the nightcap against Dave McNally.

Powell hit his home run in the second inning.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Indians' 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles on Friday night was a 3-1 victory over Atlanta.

Blass, who pitched a five-hit, two-run game against reliever Clay Carroll.

Bill Mazeroski had doubled with one out and after Donn Clendenon was walked intentionally, Jose Pagan lined out. Then Rico Carty bobbled Jerry May's bounce, loading the bases and setting the stage for Blass' winning hit which ended a five-game losing streak for Pittsburgh.

The game was delayed twice by rain for a total of one hour, 13 minutes with the score tied at 1-1.

Pagan had singled Mazeroski across with Pittsburgh's first run in the fourth. Woody Woodward's triple delivered Denis Monke in the second for the Braves' only run.

The complete game by Blass was only the ninth in 71 games for the Pirates.

Veteran Johnny Podres Hurls Detroit 1 Game Closer To Sox

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran Johnny Podres, with relief help from Mike Marshall, pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 victory over the league leading Chicago White Sox Friday night.

Podres, 2-0, a 34-year-old left-hander making his third start of the season, put the leadoff man on base three times in the first six innings without allowing a run.

But he got into trouble in the eighth when Don Buford and Dick Kenworthy hit consecutive walks, a passed ball and a two-run double by Norm Cash.

The Tigers added another run in the third without a hit. Bill Freehan led off with a walk, took second on a wild pitch by John, and scored when John let Mickey Stanley's twisting dribbler get through him for an error.

Cuozzo Gives Saints Talent, Experience

The New Orleans Saints haven't even played their first game yet, and already they are becoming known around the National Football League as "master traders."

That is, of course, because of the March swap that brought Quarterback Gary Cuozzo and Guard Butch Allison from Baltimore to the Saints in exchange for a player and a No. 1 draft choice. Thus, in one master maneuver, Coach Tom Fears put his first-year team in the "have" class in the vital quarterbacking department.

For joining Cuozzo on the Saints' signal-calling corps are another pair of NFL veterans, Gary Wood, former New York Giant, and Bill Kilmer, formerly of the San Francisco 49ers.

But for all practical purposes, Cuozzo is the "big man" with the Saints, and although Fears insists that every candidate will have an equal shot at the starting job, there are few who do not feel that the former back-up man to the Colts' Johnny Unitas won't at long last get his often-expressed wish to "play regularly."

There are few, if any, quarterbacks with largely second-string experience who have more impressive credentials than Cuozzo. A Phi Beta Kappa student at the University of Virginia, Cuozzo was undrafted and undervalued when he joined the Colts and he more or less remained that way until well into his third season when an injury to Unitas gave Cuozzo his chance to show his wares.

To say he did well would be an understatement. To say he won the admiration and respect of the entire football world would be a more accurate description. In his first "fireman" role for Unitas, he threw the winning touchdown pass against the Bears. In his second week's action, his first as a starter, Cuozzo passed for a record five touchdowns in a 41-21 rout of the Vikings. He finally was put out of action himself a few weeks later in a game with Green Bay, but his showing in that 1965 season was enough to let the football world know here was a future star with tremendous promise. His brief backup proposition: Cuozzo will make it.

Now Cuozzo comes to New Orleans and a wide-open shot at being Number 1. If you took a vote around the NFL, it would be a landslide in favor of the proposition: Cuozzo will make it.

Big Splash Of Red Ink Marks End Of Fiscal Year For U. S.

By JOSEPH H. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government ended another fiscal year Friday with the second-biggest splash of red ink in the nation's "peacetime" history.

And the deficit is expected to grow even larger in the fiscal year which begins Saturday, even if Congress raises taxes to help pay for the Vietnam war and stem inflation.

Although the tabulation of final tax and spending figures won't be completed for another three weeks, Treasury officials estimated the year-end deficit at about $11 billion, exceeded about $800 million more than expected last January, raised the anticipated deficit to $11 billion.

Some estimates of the deficit for the new fiscal year range as high as $19 billion but Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, has called estimates that high unsupported and outrageous.

During fiscal 1959, the administrative budget deficit exceeded $12.4 billion, the largest in peacetime history. But Ackley has said that would adjust to about $20 billion under current economic conditions.

The biggest deficit of $57.4 billion came during World War II in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1943.

The lack of a 6 per cent surtax on individual and corporate taxes by July 1 cost the Treasury $190 million in revenues for the fiscal year just ended.

The department figured corporations would anticipate the tax increase by raising their June payments of estimated taxes by that amount. Reinvestment of the investment tax credit also cost the government money as did the first-half economic sluggishness which was deeper than anticipated.

For the new fiscal year, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler now estimates spending at $136.5 billion and receipts at $122.9 billion for an administrative budget deficit of $13.6 billion instead of the $8.1 billion estimated in January.

Guins Custody Of Jayne Mansfield's Body, Funeral

Hargitay Ruled As Husband

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — after a three-hour private conference attended by Hargitay, the actress' mother, Mrs. Harry L. Peers of Dallas, Tex., their lawyers, and Coroner Nicholas Chetta.

Judge Bernard J. Bagert ruled that Hargitay was still the legal husband of the actress when she was killed in a highway traffic crash here Thursday.

Thus ended 34 hours of controversy over who would take Miss Mansfield to her final resting place—Hargitay or movie director Matt Cimber, the man the world believed to be her last husband.

Hargitay said funeral plans were incomplete. Earlier, he said the ceremony would be private but declined to elaborate.

The judge's ruling rejected the claim by Cimber, father of Miss Mansfield's 1-year-old son, Antonio. Cimber and the beautiful, busty blonde actress were estranged.

Both Cimber and Hargitay arrived here Thursday, flying in after the crash which killed Miss Mansfield; her latest romantic interest, lawyer Samuel Brody, 48, of Los Angeles; and their driver, Ronnie Harrison, 20, of Mississippi City, Miss.

Hargitay's three children by Miss Mansfield—Mickey Jr., 8, Zoltan, 6, and Marie, 3—were injured in the crash. They were in good condition at a New Orleans hospital.

man and wife, and Miss Mansfield bore her third child by the muscular actor.

Weber said Miss Mansfield's Juarez divorce was not valid and that no further divorce had been obtained either by the star or her husband.

"At the time of her demise, Mr. Hargitay was her legal husband," the affidavit stated, adding: "Any subsequent attempts at marriage would be unsuccessful because of a prior undissolved marriage."

The decision was based on an affidavit from Hargitay's lawyer, Jerome Weber of Beverly Hills, Calif., who swore there had never been a legal divorce dissolving the Mansfield-Hargitay marriage.

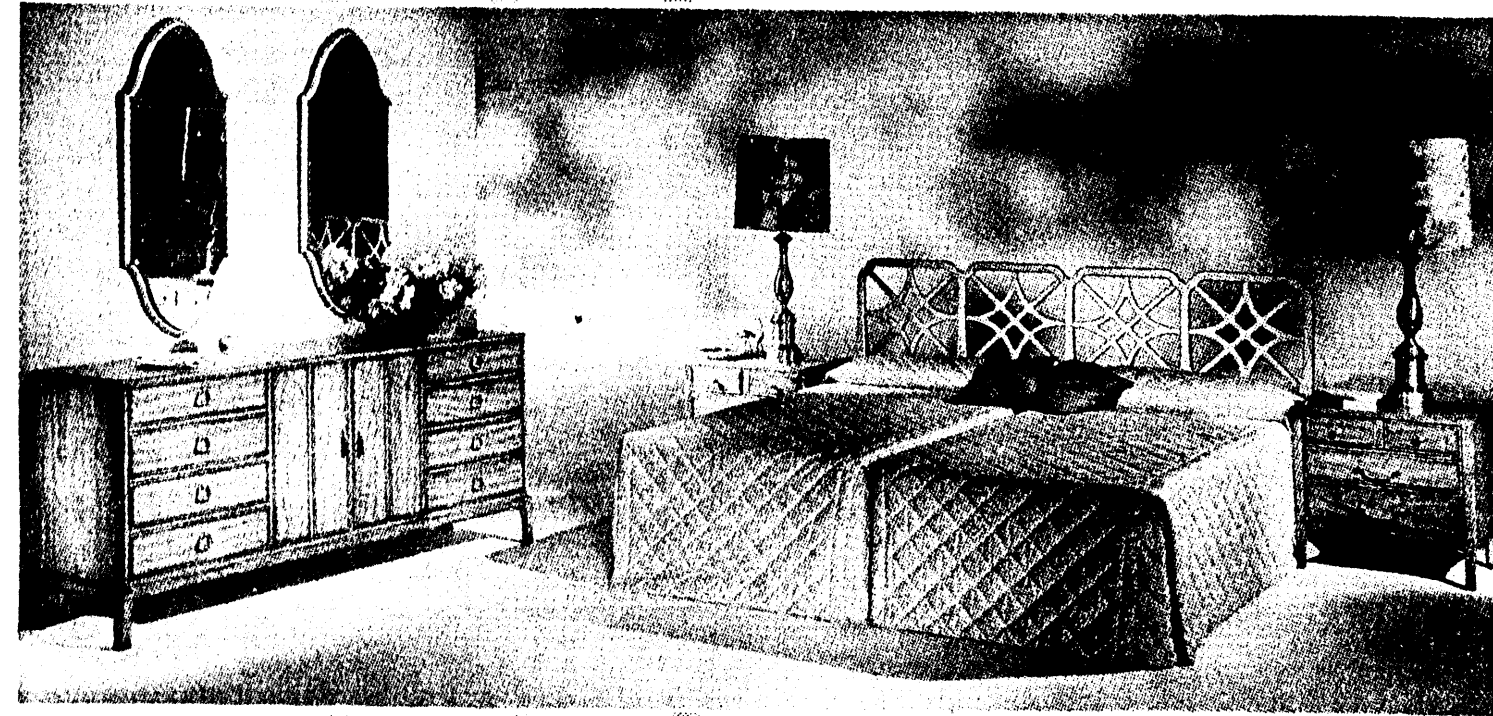

Weber said he represented Hargitay in a property settlement which began in 1963 when Miss Mansfield sought to obtain a quickie Mexican divorce. The lawyer said that, despite the Mexican divorce, the couple was reunited, lived together as

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Miss Judy Adams, Richard Barry Wade In Marriage On June 23

Miss Judy Adams and Richard Barry Wade exchanged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony in First Baptist Church, Farmerville on Friday, June 23 at 7:30 p.m. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Wade, all of Farmerville.

Massive arrangements of white gladioli, majestic daisies and agapanthus adorned the altar, behind which myriad cathedral tapers in seven-branched candelabra formed an arch. Emerald foliage banked the chancel rail and candle trees were at either side of the altar.

Rev. Larry Ramsour performed the double ring ceremony following an organ prelude by Mrs. Richard Neely. Mrs. Kenneth Kilpatrick, pianist, accompanied the soloist, Randy Gillum of Monroe.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of white slipper other sister, Miss Danna Adams, was junior bridesmaid. Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Allen Tuten, of Ruston; Miss Mary Ann Goss of Monroe; Miss Ann Edwards of Jonesboro and Mrs. Aldon Everett of Farmerville. They wore floor length gowns in Empire style of pale green linen, featuring scoop necklines, flare skirts and bell shaped sleeves enhanced with white lace scattered with multi-colored flowers. Their headdresses were matching horsehair crowns with tiered veils. They carried cascades of white Shasta daisies with strands of miniature English ivy.

Flower girl was Miss Tara Copeland, niece of the groom, whose floor length gown matched those of the other attendants. Her headdress was a bandeau of fresh white flowers and she carried a basket of white satin and lace filled with white rose petals. Acting as ring bearer was Gary Murphy of Calion, Ark., cousin of the bride.

Mike Lynch of New Orleans attended Mr. Wade as best man. Groomsmen - ushers were Joey Barron, Rodney Harper, Robbie James and Carol Copeland.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Adams was wearing a costume of saki linen with matching coat and coral tulle hat. Mrs. Wade, mother of the groom, chose an aqua eyelet embroidered sheath, featuring a tiered scalloped skirt, with matching accessories. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages, as did Mrs. A. J. Murphy of Calion, Ark., grandmother of the bride.

RECEPTION

A reception following the ceremony was held in Fellowship Hall of the church with the baskets of white wedding flowers placed at vantage points. White tapers in a silver candelabra based with the bride's bouquet, adorned the piano. Miss Margie Hayes of Ruston, presided at the bride's book at a table draped in white satin, overlaid with net and ornamented by a memory candle, encircled with yellow roses and white agapanthus.

The bride's table, covered in white satin, overlaid with gathered net, was caught up with clusters of wedding bells and yellow ribbons, and was centered with an antique corgone of white stock, agapanthus and yellow roses.

Mrs. Don Rogers of New Orleans, sister of the groom, served yellow punch from a crystal bowl, while at opposite end of the table, Mrs. Carol Copeland, also a sister of the groom, which was crested with nosegays of yellow roses. Assisting in courtesies were Mrs. Richard Bass, Mrs. Fred Eldred and Mrs. J. L. Davidson. Mrs. Kenneth D. Kilpatrick rendered pi-

For travel when the couple left on a short trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride donned an orange and gold suit with orange accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. They will be at home in Ruston. Both are graduates of Farmerville high school and the bride is a 1967 graduate of Louisiana Tech, and a member of Kappa Delta sorority. Mr. Wade is a senior at Louisiana Tech and plans to attend law school after graduation.

er of the honoree, Mrs. James Clyde Gilbert, the future groom's mother, and Mrs. James E. Bazar, hostess. Mrs. Bill Knight and Mrs. L. J. Shackelford were the other hostesses for the prenuptial event.

New Orleans Bride-Elect Is Entertained In West Monroe

Miss Linda Gayle McCrocklin, a New Orleans bride-elect who is to wed a local man, Clyde Gerald Gilbert of West Monroe, was entertained in the Reception Room of the First National Bank of West Monroe on Sunday afternoon from 2 until 4 p.m.

The hostesses, Mrs. L. J. Shackelford, Mrs. James E. Bazar, Mrs. Milton B. Adams and Mrs. Bill Knight, chose a tea shower as their prenuptial courtesy to the prospective bride.

The couple will exchange wedding vows on July 1, at 7 p.m., in Oak Park Baptist Church of New Orleans. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee F. McCrocklin Jr. of New Orleans and Mr. and Mrs. James Clyde Gilbert of West Monroe.

Mrs. Bazar joined Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. McCrocklin Jr. and the honoree in greeting the callers upon arrival. All were wearing yellow carnation corsages. Miss McCrocklin chose from her trousseau a beige and orange linen model designed with long waist and flared skirt and matching accessories.

Dear Abby

Wedded Bliss Out Of Reach Until Mom Takes Back Seat

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 years divorced and have never had a real boyfriend. O, I've had lots of dates, but they never developed into anything. My mother started a sterling silver set for me but when I was 14, and it's complete now. She also has two hope chests filled with towels and linen. When I graduated from high school she made me a beautiful white wedding gown.

Whenever a boy comes over she shows him my hope chests and talks to him about religion and how I am going to raise my children. Then I never see him again. My friends tell me I am pretty and have a nice personality and I have had the same job (bookkeeper in a wholesale business) for seven years, so what's wrong with me?

GETTING DESPERATE

DEAR GETTING: Your mother. It's hard to believe she is unaware that she's frightening all the men away. But just in case, tell her to confine her conversation with them to the weather. And if she can't, or won't, I see little hope of your ever using the contents of your hope chest until you leave your mother's bed and board.

DEAR ABBY: My husband came in this morning at 5:15, while the sun was peeking over the hill.

He said, "I fell asleep in the car after running out of gas." I found lipstick on the cigarette butts in his car -- his wedding ring in the pocket of his suit coat, alongside a membership card to an after hours club downtown.

My mother says, "Give him the benefit of the doubt." What do you say, Abby?

TORONTO WIFE: I agree with your mother. When there's any doubt, give him the benefit of it.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm dumb, but I can't figure this out. I'm an ordinary working stiff, 37, and not married. Never was. I met this woman at work and she seemed nice so I asked her for a date. She's about 30 and has three small kids whom she supports as she's

BOOK COVER

Cover beat-up school notebooks with colorful, adhesive-backed plastic -- they'll last all semester.

Don't discard blunted sewing machine needles. Sharpen the curved end off on a whetstone and save for heavier sewing jobs.

BULLETIN BOARD

For a child's bulletin board, glue automotive gasket cork to a piece of beaverboard and frame.

FIG PRESERVES

1 1/2 pounds sugar
1 pound figs, washed, drained and stems clipped

Put on sugar with enough water to dissolve. Let come to a boil, drop in figs. Cook until figs are clear and syrup is as thick as honey. Just before removing from fire, a few thin slices of lemon may be added. Some like adding 1/4 cup clear corn syrup for each gallon of figs, which may be added at any time during cooking process.

Yellow net edged in satin covered a yellow linen cloth which draped over the party table.

Continuing the yellow theme was a centerpiece of carnations flanked by crystal holders of yellow tapers. A crystal punch bowl and silver coffee service were placed on either end.

Mrs. Knight invited guests to sign the bride's book at a table covered with yellow net edged in satin and decorated with a memory candle.

Pouring coffee was Mrs. E. A. Freeman of Shreveport, and serving punch was Mrs. L. J. Shackelford. Tea girls were Misses James Shackelford, San-he and Mrs. George Wilkerson. More than 150 guests called during the appointed hours.

Beauties On Parade

By MYRT BAUDOUIN

With the 1967 Miss Louisiana Pageant in full swing, the parade of beauties in Monroe is one that is unsurpassed anywhere else. The contestants' bloom of youth and their eager anticipation of one among them being judged the state's most beautiful lass gives each a radiant glow that presents a wholesome and wonderful picture of our younger feminine generation.

When these queens arrived earlier in the week, they were a little uneasy, doubtful, as most were strangers to our city, but immediately they regained their poise and confidence as they were caught up in the hustle and bustle of the glorious days to come. Their warmth and optimism can only be generated from an inner happiness and their appreciation of the joys of life.

To be a minute part of such an exciting event enables us to have greater pride and respect for our future wives, mothers and career women. These queens are vital ingredients to the future of our state and country, and having the privilege of knowing them personally gives a feeling of hope and security for the days to come.

Their poise and confidence are outstanding, yet each is fully aware that only one can reign as Miss Louisiana. However, this does not dampen spirits, or lessen enthusiasm, and as that final moment draws closer and closer so do all the contestants. Each seems to draw from the other what is needed to maintain high spirits and bright outlooks.

When that final envelope is opened tonight the atmosphere will be tense and still, and as Miss Louisiana 1967 is crowned, each of the other contestants, radiant and lovely, will have a pull at those heart strings. They will feel disappointment but with all sincerity they will wish her nothing but the best during her reign.

The contestants have already been chosen queens, and truly queens they are. Their futures are bright, even though they all cannot wear the state's glittering crown, they are far from being losers. They each have their respective crowns and will return home to continue their reign, wiser and happier from the wonderful experience gained from having been selected to compete for the top beauty title of our state.

HOT FUDGE SUNDAE

The favorite all year 'round sundae is vanilla ice cream topped with hot fudge sauce. The best of all hot fudge sauces takes but two ingredients and is fabulously rich and chocolately in moments of heating. Merely melt a six-ounce package semi sweet chocolate pieces in 1/2 cup evaporated milk over low heat, stirring until smoothly blended. This makes about 1 cup fudge sauce, enough for four servings hot fudge sundaes.

Hints From Heloise

Frozen Drinks For Outing Defrost In Time For Lunch

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: Well in advance of a picnic, I prepare about one-half of the fruit drink or iced tea which we are going to take along and freeze it in plastic pint containers.

I also freeze some of the drink at the same time in as many tumblers as I will need for serving each person. I use plastic tumblers with the tight seals.

At serving time, I empty the pints into a large covered plastic serving pail and pour tap water into the pail.

The frozen portions which have been made twice as strong cool the water without becoming too diluted. In the meantime, the frozen pints of tea have been used to cool and keep our picnic food fresh.

I call this double duty! The tumblers are already cool and each has a nice chunk of ice because they will have melted slightly by the time you get there.

H. N. N.

Dear Heloise:

I never apply varnish with a brush anymore. I always get too many bubbles that way along with streaks.

Instead I now apply it with a soft cloth.

Just rub it on and you will have a nice smooth finish with no bubbles or streaks.

Martha P.

Folks, be sure the cloth is lint free. I tried it and it's the greatest. Faster too.

Sen. Aiken Marries Chief Office Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — recent years has been his top White-haired Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., surprised friends and associates Friday by announcing his long-time chief office assistant, Miss Lola Phelan, as his bride.

Aiken, who will be 70 on Aug. 20, is dean of Senate Republicans. He has served since January 1941. His bride and administrative assistant started working for him in 1937, when he was governor of Vermont. She has been on his staff since he entered the Senate. Phelan said she is 55.

The ceremony was performed in the Army chapel in nearby Ft. Myer, Va., by Lt. Col. Aiken, who was a nurseryman and expert on wild flowers and horticulture before he devoted full time to politics as a resident of Putney, Vt.

Known as a liberal and moderate, Aiken has sponsored much farm legislation through the years and served as chairman of the Agriculture Committee in 1953-54. He served also on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Aiken's first wife was Beatrice M. Howard, who died in May 1955. She seldom accompanied him in Washington. They had three daughters and a son. The son, then 38, was killed in an airplane crash in 1959.

Phelan expected the new couple to drive to Vermont to spend a few days during the congressional adjournment which ends July 15.

SEN. GEORGE AIKEN
... Announces Wedding

Charles Powers, a Roman Catholic priest, officiated at the wedding. Aiken has no religious faith in his official biographical sketch in the Congressional Directory.

The newlyweds informed the senator's office staff that they were being married but left no other details. They left a list of friends to be notified after the ceremony.

Even Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, longtime friend of both, first learned the news by telephone.

Mrs. Smith gave a surprise birthday party for Aiken at the Senate in 1965 with President and Mrs. Johnson and daughter Lynda Bird among the guests.

The President praised Aiken as one of the most effective farmers of the farmer in the Senate.

"I know of no man on either side of the aisle who is a greater American than George Aiken," the President said.

Mrs. Aiken first served her husband as a secretary but in

Re-Enlistment Program Noted

It has been announced by personnel at the U.S. Air Force Re-Enlistment Office here that the Air Force re-enlistment program will be completely changed, effective today.

Persons with prior service in any branch of the armed forces may now re-enlist in the Air Force.

In previous years, the Air Force has not been able to re-enlist persons who had Army and Marine training in the military. However, these persons may return and be sent directly to an Air Force training school.

It was also noted by the re-enlistment office that persons may enlist in the same rank and pay grade in which they were discharged, as long as they have been out of the service for less than two years.

Also, persons may now enlist in the Air Force in their old specialty or may select a new specialty and go directly to Air Force training school.

Colt Employees Plan To Strike

HARTFORD, UPI — Union employees at Colt Industries Inc. makers of the M16 rifle used in Vietnam, voted "almost unanimously" Friday to strike the plant at midnight.

About 900 employees belonging to Local 275 of the United Auto Workers UAW were eligible to vote. Exact figures on the strike vote were not immediately available.

Management and union representatives had met for six weeks prior to the strike vote to draft a new contract. The contract was submitted to the union without recommendation from the union leaders.

Spokesmen declined to elaborate on the dispute.

The plane went down in almost the same spot where a U.S. military plane crashed in August, 1965, while taking off Vietnam with a load of Marines returning to the battlefields after rest and recuperation leaves. Fifty-eight of the 71 persons aboard the C130 Hercules transport were killed then.

Military Reluctant On ABM Ban Stakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top military officers would be highly reluctant to consider bargaining away any of the nation's newest strategic weapons in order to get an antimissile ban with the Soviet Union, Pentagon sources report.

This option lies open in view of the United States' expressed willingness to discuss with the Russians possible limitations on both offensive and defensive arms.

"I wouldn't yield our Minuteman III or Poseidon missiles," was one ranking officer's immediate reaction to such a possibility.

Yet he did not rule out an offensive arms cutback, saying it would be difficult to comment on what the United States might be willing to yield to entice a Soviet halt to antimissile deployments.

"This is an extremely complicated equation," he said. "We must weigh the whole problem. I would have to read the agreement and the fine print very, very carefully before I would say yes or no."

Minuteman III is the advanced Air Force missile especially designed with elaborate decoys which has been ordered into production as a means of penetrating the antimissile defense around Moscow.

Poseidon is the submarine-launched missile bearing multiple warheads which has been given the go-ahead to offset the Soviet stepped-up deployment of ocean-spanning offensive rockets.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's remarks in New York on Sunday left a dark cloud over prospects that the two nuclear powers might agree to banning or curbing an antimissile race.

Kosygin said antimissiles aren't weapons "of aggression, of attack" and that therefore any high-level discussions should cover "the entire complex of armaments and disarmament questions."

The premier spoke of how a nation could, instead of building an antimissile system, put its money into offensive missiles.

This was an apparent reference to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's chosen policy of improving U.S. offensive forces to counter Soviet defenses, rather than deeply U.S. antimissiles.

A top military officer, who asked not to be named, did not interpret the Soviet stand as a flat rejection. But he said private overtures for an antimissile ban have failed and the United States must, to insure national security, proceed with its own antimissile defense.

Whatever the Soviet policy may be, this officer felt Kosygin was not in a position to enunciate any sort of an agreement with the United States while on a mission to back the Egyptians in the Middle East problem now before the United Nations.

The officer viewed Kosygin's comments as a reflection of the Soviet Union's desire to move slowly — if at all — toward antimissile limitations because of its traditional reliance on defense.

The Russians, he felt, also would have much to gain by opening up negotiations covering the whole realm of strategic weapons. The United States claims a 3 to 1 advantage over the Soviet Union in terms of long-range offensive missiles.

The administration included $377 million in the fiscal 1968 budget as stand-by funds to build the Nike X system, a network of split-second reaction radars and, depending on the chosen scope of the defense, perhaps 1,000 interceptor missiles.

Long-range missiles of the Nike X would neutralize oncoming enemy warheads outside the atmosphere. Swifter short-range antimissiles would be stationed around specific cities or military installations to intercept any ICBMs which which evaded the more distant defense.

Military leaders believe a system costing $3 billion to $5 billion could provide a thin general defense for the country while affording "point" protection for offensive missile batteries and vital bases.

The feeling among top military men now is that McNamara probably would go along with the thing defense, primarily as a means of preserving U.S. striking force of Air Force Minutemen missiles and not as a significant population shield.

Governors Want Open GOP Race

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Republican governors urged their party Friday to foster a wide-open campaign for the 1968 presidential nomination by avoiding formal advance commitments to any candidate.

They said that would promote party unity and produce an active national campaign for the nomination.

Their proposal was made in a resolution which declared that the governors favor uninstructed delegation to the next GOP convention "unless otherwise directed by state law or the favorite-son wishes of the individual states."

Thus the governors rejected the kind of advance delegation commitments which helped build Barry Goldwater's conservative Republican victory in the battle for the 1964 White House nomination.

"I think it will be beneficial to all those seeking the nomination," said Gov. Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma, who proposed the resolution.

It was adopted unanimously by the 21 governors convened at this lakeside resort at the foot of the Grand Teton Mountains.

There was no way to measure the impact of the governors' move. Some governors said the resolution had little meaning.

The statement was adopted after two days of hotel-room conference about possible nominees.

The resolution said it would "help create a climate throughout the country conducive to an aggressive, positive campaign for the selection of the Republican presidential and vice-presidential nominees."

"The practice of the state delegations being instructed and irrevocably bound to a particular national candidate tends to disrupt unity and to be divisive within Republican ranks."

"That too seemed a reference to lessons learned in 1964 when the party split after the Goldwater nomination."

"This shows that the Republican governors are eager to support our nominee," Bartlett said of his resolution. "to have a climate for the campaign which will be conducive to free and full discussion of the issues."

"We are as Republican governors determined to play an effective, cooperative role in the process of nominating a Republican candidate for president," said Colorado Gov. John A. Love, association chairman.

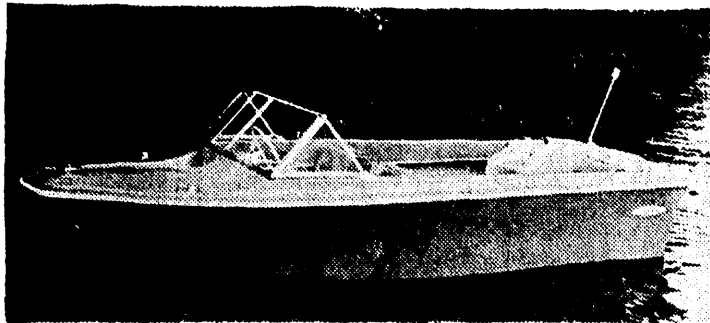

The favorite son exemption could cover some key states. California Gov. Ronald Reagan — emerging in Republican speculation for the nomination — has said he will be a favorite son in his state's primary. Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe said he also may take that role.

Some states, such as California and Oregon, bind their delegations to vote at the national conventions for the winners of their presidential primaries.

The Jackson conference produced no gubernatorial consensus on a candidate for 1968.

But New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafees were actively pursuing support for Michigan Gov. George W. Romney. They won no announcements of endorsement.

Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Please help me to help my ten-year-old daughter. She has an enormous complexion problem. I just can't seem to help.

Her forehead, nose and chin and both cheeks are covered with many large and small blackheads. It is almost like a mask. She has pimples too.

Our doctor suggested soap and water in large, gentle doses, but the blackheads keep coming. This child must have the most active oil glands on record. Her face is like a sheet of oil when she comes in from schools.

This problem isn't just going to disappear. Someday soon she will be covered with acne. Isn't there something to do? — Mrs. G.

COMMENT: You are wise in anticipating trouble and trying to do something about it. Acne is often tied in with puberty, which often begins in the early teens. So you might expect that a youngster with all these blackheads will have an acne problem by the time she reaches 11-12, when the hormones cause body changes — one of which is enlargement of the oil glands of the skin and excessive secretion of oil. In some cases like your daughter's it can border on the abnormal.

DERMATOLOGIST

There are certain things you can try at home, but I advise you to place her under the care of a dermatologist. As we all know, keeping a teenager on a proper diet is the bugaboo of most parents. Nevertheless, try to restrict chocolates, nuts, sweet drinks, french fries, high jodine - content sea foods and pizzas.

Using a soft washcloth is useful in temporarily ridding the face of oil with the help of a mild soap. This should be done often. As for the blackheads, try squeezing the large ones yourself, and not attempting to get rid of them all in one sitting. Such an over - conscientious "attack" on the blackheads often causes unnecessary facial irritation and the formation of more pimples.

This is about all you can do at home. I think the major plan for preventive treatment will have to originate in a family physician or dermatologist's office. He will fill you in with just what brand of soap to use and give you prescriptions for the necessary lotions and medicines to use.

Doctors don't take the problems of acne lying down. We are not so defeatist - minded. Although it still remains a stubborn opponent, we often help with the use of various weapons in the treatment arsenal.

SYMPATHY

As I keep saying, the first essential is a sympathetic, patient doctor. The patient should find his office a haven of refuge when spirits are low, and the mirror - image of one's face difficult to look at.

In addition to the usual suggestions for facial cleanliness, the doctor has a large choice of remedies. Some are amazingly effective; others temporary failures.

Some patients are helped by female hormones, others by thyroid hormone, and still others by cortisone - type medications. If acne is present in a pustular form (inflammation following infected blackheads) the sulfa drugs or antibiotics often help.

Some doctors favor giving bacterial vaccines in some cases. Others find that large doses of Vitamin A help. Ultraviolet or sun lamp treatments improve mild cases.

In severe cases with large scars and cysts, the operation known as "dermabrasion" is often effective in providing "new skin."

What I am trying to stress is that home treatment is important, but that regular visits to a doctor are essential for the most effective care.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer reader's letters. Nevertheless, all questions of general interest are answered in later columns.

If you have a question you want answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning-World and News Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you each Saturday in this column.

Can you tell me who is to pay for the recent tax election. I mean the costs of voting machines, the people who worked at the polls and all?

The "costs" of the voting machines, if there is any cost, is borne by the State Custodian of Voting Machines' office. This department is in charge of the voting machines, their storage and transportation to and from the polls. The costs of the workers, commissioners and clerks at the polls, is borne by the different school boards in the Fifth District. In the case of Ouachita Parish, there would be two sets of costs. One paid by the Monroe School Board for the workers in the polls within the jurisdiction of the city school board, basically within the city limits. The second, for the poll workers outside the city limits of Monroe, is paid by the parish school board. In other parishes in the district, the parish school board pays the costs.

Who is paying for the new plane allotted to the governor?

The State of Louisiana. What was the cost of the plane? The state paid $204,838 in cash earlier this year. This was in addition to the trade in of the old plane.

If it is 12 noon in West Monroe, what time would it be in Dallas, Tex.? The same. Both cities are in the same time zone.

How many registered voters are there in each parish in the Fifth Congressional District?

An official report from the Board of Registration, State of Louisiana, lists the following: Jackson, 7,580; Madison, 6,412; Franklin, 8,410; Concordia, 8,940; Morehouse, 9,264; Catahoula, 4,745; Caldwell, 4,515; Lincoln, 9,685; West Carroll, 4,922; Union, 7,778; Tensas, 3,131; Richland, 7,090; East Carroll, 2,890; and Ouachita, 31,953.

Could you please tell me whether a dishonorable discharge from the service of the country affects the citizenship and if so, in what way? I am referring to voting, employment and any other privileges one may enjoy.

We can find no law which would prevent the person from becoming a voter, unless his citizenship has been removed. The dishonorable discharge, we are told, would prevent the person from being eligible for any benefits of the Veterans Administration program and employment with the federal government.

Is there any law against hit-and-run driving, when it involves killing a pet? There is no statute, either municipal or state (parish) which would apply. When contacted, the various traffic departments' spokesmen said all officers are instructed to use extreme care in driving in order to avoid all types of accidents, whether it involves someone's pet or a person. However, many of the roads and highways in the area are included in stock laws, which prohibit animals roaming at large on the roads.

Is it legal for a state highway patrolman to hide when catching speeding motorists. This has occurred in the Swartz area.

A check with headquarters of Troop F, Louisiana state police, gave a different version of recent incidents. We are told that the troop has been using radar equipment in the area (due to the unusual number of complaints by residents about speeding). Use of the radar units requires that an officer and the radar equipment be placed near the road, then another patrol unit down the road, to stop the speeders. The car of the first patrolman handling the radar is placed off the road in order not to interfere with the radar operations. Also, parking the unit on the road would create a traffic hazard, police pointed out.

Is there an ordinance dealing with the parking of automobiles in the streets of a residential neighborhood. Some families park their cars in the streets rather than in the yards. Many persons will be grateful if you can give us an answer.

We checked with law enforcement officers of both the cities and the parish and were told the following: Unless the area is designated as "No Parking," such as certain streets where traffic is heavy and the streets narrow, close to

GSRI To Open Building Bids

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Gulf South Research Institute will open bids July 18 for construction of the first four buildings in GSRI's Plantation Park laboratories here.

President Bruce Graham of GSRI said the way was cleared for the bid taking by transfer of 200 acres of land to GSRI from the Baton Rouge area foundation.

Transfer of the land valued at $500,000 was signed by John Barton, president of the community-owned, nonprofit organization, and the land was re-

(poker) hand. I wouldn't give it up either. It's only natural to keep what you've got.

Later he added, "I can't do nothing for people who don't help themselves."

During a rest break, Meredith told a young Negro man, "Prayer won't help you. It'll make you feel better but it won't help. The Lord offers opportunity, but you got to take it."

Two engineers employed in the Apollo Manned Space Craft Program, joined the march. They identified themselves as Tom H. S. Brown, 31, of Los Angeles, working in systems and analysis for T. R. W., Inc., of Houston, Tex., and Limas Jefferson, a Negro who works with him.

Pistol Shot Fatal To Man

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Police said Friday Arthur Nawadny, 43, was killed when his pistol discharged accidentally into his chest.

Officers said Nawadny had put the .22 caliber pistol on a sofa after searching without success for a prowler.

Stock Market Volume Lowest This Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market volume dwindled to the lowest in a month as the list took an unimportant loss on Friday.

It will be a four-day weekend for those investors and Wall Street functionaries who take Monday off in advance of the July 4 holiday when the exchanges will be closed.

With many of the normal pre-weekend evening-up operations, the market displayed no particular trend except caution.

Turnover slipped to 7.86 million shares.

The Dow Jones industrial average east 1.68 to 860.26, putting it right on the 860 line which some theorists hope will be a minor support level from which the last might launch the so-called traditional summer rally.

To the worries of the past week about an impending boom in taxes, the already disconcerting uptick in interest rates, and the tricky international situation was added another matter for concern. That was the disclosure by the Administration of specific slashes in thousands of U.S. tariffs resulting from the Kennedy round of negotiations.

Some business executives were still studying the implications on their own profit picture. Others made some squawks. For the market it was just one more uncertainty.

The drop of more than two million shares in the pace of trading since the day previous was ample demonstration of how wary the Street had become.

The market began with a slight rise but it could not be sustained and prices drifted off.

A few specialties enlivened the situation.

Of 1429 issues traded, 603 rose and 574 fell. New highs for the year totaled 53 and new lows 60.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 2 to 323.0.

with industrials off 4, rails off 3 and utilities up 3.

Despite the lackadaisical atmosphere in the over-all market, there was enough trading spirit so that 11 of the 15 most active issues rose and only four fell.

Among actively traded gainers, Pan American Sulphur rose 1/4, Diners' Club 2 1/4, United Nuclear 2 1/4, Penn-Dixie 1 1/4, Symington-Wayne 1 1/4 and Wolvenor Wide 3.

Heavily traded on the downside, Uniroyal dropped 3/4, General Development 1/2, TWA 1/2, General Motors 1/2 and Warner-Lambert 1/2.

Among other movers, Ford gained 1/4 while Chrysler and American Motors closed unchanged.

The top steelmakers were very narrowly mixed. Oils had a slightly higher edge on balance.

Xerox, off 1/4, seemed to have stemmed its headlong decline this week on fears of disappointing Du Pont held unchanged despite a company forecast of a 27 or 28 per cent profits dropoff for the first half.

International Nickel lost 1/4, Homestake 1/4, Procter & Gamble 1/4, Polaroid 1/4, IBM 2 and New York Central 1/4.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 21 at 90.64.

The New York Stock Exchange index dropped 8 cents at $50.27.

Prices rose irregularly on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.94 million shares. The Exchange's index rose 7 cents to $19.96.

Scurry Rainbow oil rose 2 1/4 to 11 1/4, recovering slightly from its plunge of 1 1/4 Thursday.

Gulf American Corp. sank 2 1/4 to 9 1/4 as trading was resumed following publicity about a Florida Land Board investigation.

Conde Nast rose 3/4 and Electronic Arts 1/4.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds were unchanged to lower.

Futures Vary On Chicago Trade Board

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat and corn futures displayed some weakness throughout most of the session on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday but soybeans showed some surprising strength.

An abundance of rain and snow, scattered sunshine, all pointing to favorable growing and harvest conditions, tended to influence lower corn and wheat futures. This also was a first notice day for traders to indicate whether they will stand for delivery of the July contracts. Since a large number of bushels were expected to be tendered prices declined.

Commercial interests, commission houses and local traders were noted on both sides of the activity in wheat and corn dealings.

Soybeans, soybean oil and soybean meal spurred ahead on reports that Japan would cut import tariffs on soybeans from the present 13 per cent to 6 per cent. This potentially could raise our exports to Japan, which now total 48 million bushels since last September.

Oats and rye trade was mixed and light.

Soybean oil and soybean meal moved ahead in active trade then fell back somewhat under profit taking.

Good commercial buying helped improve the choice steer market early but prices fell back fractionally at the close. Trade was active.

At the close, wheat was 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents a bushel lower, July 1.50 1/2-3/4; corn was unchanged to 1/2 cent lower, July 1.30 1/2-3/4; soybeans were 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 1.18 1/2-3/4; soybean meal was 1/2 higher, July 2.82 1/2-3/4.
